

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

This book, on the Irregular and Defective Greek Verbs, is the result of much toilsome labour and anxious thought.

In the course of extensive and rather accurate reading of the Greek Authors, I had been accustomed to mark whatever occurred to me as rare or peculiar in form, quantity, and meaning. This often enabled me to supply authority in cases where none had been previously given, and often to supply even tenses which had been denied to exist.

The chief peculiarities which distinguish this book from others on the same subject are the following:—

First, the history of the verb is more fully developed by being traced to a later period of the language, and the prose usage given commensurately with the poetic. I never could see the propriety of accepting parts and forms peculiar to the Anthology, but rejecting those which occur first in Aristotle, Polybius, Arrian, Dionysius of Halicarnassus, Lucian, etc. This fuller development will be of no slight advantage to the advanced scholar; and I have taken care to prevent its proving injurious to the less advanced—whose attention should be confined chiefly to what is strictly classical—by marking as late those parts and forms which are not found in the purer writers.

Second, I have enlarged considerably the list of verbs, and given authority for every part for which authority could be found, for the present as well as for the derivative tenses.

Third—and what I hold of capital importance—I have always given the parts in the simple form when I could find them, and in no instance have I given a compound without warning, or exhibiting its composition. The giving as simple forms those which the Greeks uniformly employed as compound, is a fault that deeply vitiates every book on the subject, and a fault of perhaps graver import than may on first thoughts be very obvious. It is easy to say that the compound infers the simple. But to what extent, and in what sense is this true? Legitimate analogical formation is one thing, usage is another. The Romans of the classic period said linquo, liqui, linquere, but re-lictus; tollo, tollere, but sustuli, sublatum; elicio, not lacio; inspicio, not specio, etc., etc.; and we say deceive, perceive, receive, but never ceive; preserve, observe, reserve, never, in this sense, the simple serve.

This might be followed out to great length, but it is enough for my purpose merely to indicate the line of investigation, and to suggest an analogous case in other languages, especially in our own in which we can feel more strongly and finely. From the frequent absence of simples in whole or in part, and from the analogy of other languages, is it not a natural and legitimate inference that the Greeks would have felt it as strange to hear certain of their compound verbs used in the simple form as we should do to hear some of ours? No doubt changes introduced by time, accident, use and wont, the absence of such combinations of circumstances as require the simple, the fact that compounds lose their more prominent distinctiveness and thus serve the purpose of simples, degradation from written or confinement to spoken speech, usurpation by other verbs identical or akin in meaning, loss of records, and other causes may go far towards accounting for certain curious phenomena in language; but let us have correct data from which to reason: let us have what the Greeks wrote. The investigation is an interesting one, and I should be glad if it were taken up by some person who has sufficient leisure, a mind of sufficient compass, and duly exercised by use to discern the things that differ.

I have uniformly used the best editions of the Greek Authors, and have thus been enabled to exhibit the Irregular and Defective Verbs somewhat more in accordance with the now approved Texts than has hitherto been done. Some books of considerable merit have been greatly marred by the use of uncritical editions. In cases of disputed readings, instead of arbitrating myself, I have given what in a book like this ought always to be given—the MSS. and Editors that support each reading; and have thus furnished the scholar with the proper data, the external grounds at least, for guiding his decision. All my references are the result of my own reading; I have not borrowed them from others, except in a few very late Authors, Philo for instance, Apollinaris, etc., and these I owe to Lobeck. To Buttmann and Matthiae I am much indebted. Buttmann on Epic diction has no equal; and Matthiae's list of Irregular Verbs in the third German edition of his Greek Grammar (untranslated) is one of the best I have seen. I have also derived advantage from the Paris edition of Stephens' Thesaurus, and several useful hints from the works of Poppo, Krüger, and Ahrens.

Extreme care has been taken to secure accuracy in every respect, so essentially important in a work like this. But amid so many disturbing biases, so many risks of going wrong, it will be marvellous indeed if I have in all cases gone right. My eye may have slipped over errors, my judgment over graver faults.

In this second edition, I have corrected error and supplied defect by reading again the newest recensions of the classical, and extending my reading of the later writers. I have also tried so to arrange the vouchers as to shew the usage—general or confined to a class—of each part of the verb, as well as the defects and dialectic peculiarities. The book has thus been brought nearer to its aim—of being a trustworthy guide to the pupil and the teacher, and of some use perhaps also to the textualist and the advanced amateur scholar. I feel grateful to the Delegates of the Clarendon Press for their scholarly generosity in bringing out this book, so little fitted—however good and useful its aim—to engage the favour of the Trade.

The third edition is a severe revision of the second, with such additions and alterations as seemed to be necessary or useful. I gratefully acknowledge some important corrections and suggestions kindly communicated by the Dean of Christ Church.

1871.

In this fourth edition, besides a general revision, the references have been largely increased, Dialectic peculiarities more carefully noted, and a few verbs added noteworthy chiefly for considerable defect. I gladly accord due thanks to Dr. G. Curtius, Leipsic, and Dr. Pökel, Prenzlau, for kindly drawing my attention to some unseemly errors.

1879.

At II. 19, 95 quoted, Bekker, Spitzner, and Dindorf, instead of Zην άσανο the common reading, adopt Zevs άσανο with Aristarchus. By this change the aor. mid. would lose its only instance of active force in classic Greek, unless Bergk's suggestion ἀάσαννο. Fr. Inc. 39, 3, be correct for δάσαννο (Bekk.), see Apollodor. 3, 4, 4. We demur to this emendation of Bergk, both because we do not see the unsuitableness of the common reading, and because we never met with a decided case of ἀάω signifying physical harm. It certainly is not established by the quotation from Hesychius, ἀάσαννο, ἔβλαψαν, for, as far as documentary evidence goes, Hesych. may be merely defining his own notions of Epic usage; and even if he have a wider reference—to authors not now extant—it is still not decisive, for the equivalent ἔβλαψαν has notoriously a double aspect, φρένας βλάπτεν II. 15, 724, 28 well 28 γούνατα 7, 271.

'Αβακέω--'Αγάλλω.

('Αβακέω) Το be speechless, know not (βάζω), Epic, and only sor. ἀβάκησαν Od. 4, 249. The collateral mid. form ἀβακίζομαι is used in participle only, -ομένων Anacr. 74 (Bergk.) (ἄβἄ-). 'Αβολέω Το meet, Orph. Arg. 472 if sound: fut. ἀβολήσω Ap.

For ἀγαλλιῶμεν Rev. 19, 7, some Mss. and edit. have mid. -ιώμεθα, and for ηγαλλίασε Luc. 1, 47, Bretschneider would read mid. -ávaro on the ground that the  $\tau_0$  of the verb had been lost owing to the article  $\tau_0$  immediately following. The best Mss. however present, and immediately following. The best the best editors retain, the aor. act.

The fut. is rare, in Hom. only once, for ἀγάσσεσθαι the old reading H. Hym. 3, 343, is now aor. -άσσασθαι, and ἀγάσσεαι formerly Od. 1, 389, was displaced by Wolf for κεμεσήσεαι (Eust. Schol.) which has been approved by Perhaps every subsequent editor except Nitzsch. The classic usage of the Verb, then, seems to be: the pres. is employed by every class of writers, the fut. by Hom. only, the aor. mid. chiefly by the Epics, occurring in classic prose once only, Dem. quoted, never in Attic poetry, aor. pass. by Hes. Solon, Pind.

Eur. and Attic prose writers, but neither by Hom. nor the Comedians. We have traced the walk of this verb a little more particularly, because we have lately seen it marked as poetical only.

'Aγάομαι Το envy, Epic (and only pres. and imp.), Hom. has ἀγᾶσθε Od. 5, 129, but usu. the lengthened forms ἀγάασθε Od. 5, 119; ἀγάασθαι 16, 203; part. ἀγώμενος Hes. At Od. 16, 203, ἀγάασθαι seems rather to mean marvel al; with seemingly a shade of suspicion or awe in ἀγώμενος Hes. Th. 619. In the later critical recensions, editors in accordance with the best Mss. have discarded almost entirely the 2 aor. act. mid. and pass. for 1 aor. and often imp. which, if the Mss. represent the usage, seems to have been sometimes used with apparently the force of an aorist. In Xen., Plato, and the Attic Poets, we think there is not left a trace of 2 aor. except perhaps Eur. Hel. 448, ἀγγελεῖν, which, if correct, seems left to the sad choice of being either 2 aor., or future with ἄν. Gaisſ. in his last ed. of Her. (1839) retains 2 aor. act. we think in one place only, ἀπήγγελον 4, 153, Bekker and Krüg. at 7, 142, Dind. Bred. Lhardy imp. ἀπήγγελλον in both passages. In the orators, Bekker has left perhaps only one instance ἐξήγγελε Lycurg. 85, to which however, in the critical notes, he prefers ἐξήγγειλε, Bait. Saupp. Scheibe ἐξήγγελλε (Mss. A. B.): 2 aor. mid. Gaisſ. once and unaugm. ἄγγελτο (if not plp.) Her. 7, 37, but imp. ἡγγελλετο (Bekk. Dind.), and Poppo, though retaining ἐπαγγελουτο Xen. An. 5, 6, 26, has nevertheless stigmalized it, and suggested ἐπηγγείλουτο from v. r. ὑπισχνοῦντο (Dind.): on the same grounds Krüger suggests imp. ἐπηγγελλουτο, but gives in the text opt. -γελλουτο. Some foreigners, probably from want of Gaisſord's last ed. of Her., have misrepresented the readings of that cautious, sound, and candid scholar.

We have not observed the simple form of this verb in Comedy. The 1 acr. act. seems to have been occasionally confounded with 1 aor. of εγείρω. At Il. 5, 510, old editions have θυμὸν ἀγείραι, which late editors have properly changed to εγείραι; and μάχην ήγειρας 13, 778, πόλεμον ήγειραν Pl. Leg. 685, should also be referred to έγείρω. The mid. and passive in the simple form seem to be exclusively Epic in the classic period. The 2 sor. mid. is always intrans., the 1 sor. always trans. simple and comp.; ἐσαγείρατο λαός Od. 14, 248 (Vulg. Dind.) has been rightly altered to imp. ἐσαγείρετο by Bekker, and adopted by Faesi, Baeumlein, La Roche. Her. always augments this verb, ήγειρ- 1, 61. 62, συν-ήγειρ- 4, 4. 163.

Hesychius's αγλαι(ει, θαλλει, it correct, scents against the change. This verb occurs neither in Trag. nor classic prose.

Why fut. mid. ἀγνοήσομαι only pres. sor. and rarely perf. sot. Why fut. mid. ἀγνοήσομαι should be said "to want classical authority" we know not, since it is vouched by the best Ms. and adopted by the best editors of Dem. 18, 249 (Ms. S. Bekk. Dind. Bait. Saupp.) Some lexicons err exceedingly in saying that the fut. mid. is more freq. than the fut. act. There is no ground for comparison, for in the only instance where the mid. occurs it is passive.

in the only instance where the mid. occurs it is passive.

We have drawn out this verb, not because of any irregularity, but because Cobet (Var. Lect. p. 36 &c.) maintains that it is used by classic writers in the pres. and imp. only, "praesentis tantum et imperfecti formam in usu esse," that its fut. and aor. &c. are έρω, είπον, and that "ἀγορεύσω, ἢγόρευσα, ἢγόρευκα et cognata omnia neque in simplici forma, neque in composita in antiquo sermone Graeco usitata fuisse, neque earum formarum exempla apud veteres extare, nisi forte in uno alteroque loco depravato." He bates a trifle in the case of προσαγορεύω, but adds "ceterarum (formarum) nec vola nec vestigium est." We think he has been misled by a too exclusive attention to a particular class of writers. But is it sound policy to allow a pragmatical section to give law on a matter which affects the liberties of the community, and on which other bodies are as well qualified to judge? The orator might from use and wont confine himself professionally to the pres. and imp., but is this to prevent poet, philosopher, and historian from freely using also the fut. sor. and perf. if it so pleased them? But even the orators seem sometimes to have leapt their limits-more freq., we think, than Cobet was aware when he was trying to define them. Nay, we think it probable that Aeschines himself, whom he rather confidently produces to vouch his views, wrote ανηγόρευσε, not -ρευε 3, 122, notwithstanding the proximity of ανείπε. See Pind. δε αρ' ἔειπεν. ἀκὰ δ' ἀνταγόρευσεν καὶ Πελίας P. 4, 156 (Bergk.) The "sequiores," Cobet grants, used ἀγορεύσω, -ευσα, -ευσα, -ευσα, but "errant omnes, Sophistae, Rhetores, Magistri!" Hipp. 625 (best Mss.) is opposed by fut. -εσθαι, and προαξώμεθα Dem. 5, 14 (Vulg.) is now -αξόμεθα (Mss. Bekk. Dind. Voem. &c.): sometimes in late. but scarcely in the new Dind. Voem. &c.); sometimes in late, but scarcely in the new recensions, for προάξασθαι Dio Cass. 47, 34; Herodn. 1, 12, 4; Plut. Eum. 4; Philostr. Im. 788 (Vulg.), ἐπ- Plut. Marc. 29 (Vulg.), ὑπ- Paus. 9, 40, 4 (Siebel), have been displaced by tut. -άξεσθαι, -άξονται, in the recent edit. of Bekk. L. Dind. Kaiser, Schubart, and Sintenis. Besides rarity in Attic, the soundness of 1 sor. act. προσήξαν (Thuc. 2, 97) has been challenged on the ground that "it should answer to imp. προσεφέρετο." We doubt this. The cases differ, and the difference determines the Tense. The main object of Thuc. is to state the amount of one year's φόρος; and as this was statutory and fixed, he naturally views it as a collective sum and one payment—hence the box. Whereas the δώρα are, from the nature of the case, viewed as paid from time to time, as convenience or inclination might prompt—and hence imp. προσεφέρετο. So (Dem.) states the fact by ἐκεῖνοι μὲν ᾿Αθηναίοις φόρους ῆνεγκαν ΙΙ, 16, but the wont by φόρους ἡμῖν ἔφερον 7, 12, see 29, 47. προσ-ήρκεσαν Badham's conject. The act. form is late, κατ-ήδεσε Themist. 15, 191; -αιδέσαι Heliod. 4, 18, 24. 6, 9. The Ion. form προαιδεύμαι occurs Her. 3, 140: imp. προηδέατο 1, 61 (Mss. Gaisf. Bekk. Krüg. Dietsch, Dind. &c.), προαιδ- (Bredow, Abicht, Stein.) Some say this is for Att. προήδηντο, but then what is this? Others say more definitely, it is plp. pass. If so, it is unique, for the constant analogy of the verb is  $\epsilon$  and  $\sigma$  in the perf. and sor. pass.  $-\epsilon \sigma \mu a \iota$ ,  $-\epsilon \sigma \theta \eta \nu$ , never -ημαι, -ήθην. We think it imperf. for προηδέοντο, or in stricter Ion. προαιδέοντο; for the general rule with Her. is not to augm. verbs beginning with a. Besides, the imp. seems to suit the sense better. "Those cities contributed which were previously wont to respect them, and were still feeling a touch of the old kindness." In good prose the aor. mid. occurs only in Dem.

Hom. uses the indic. of both ἡράμην and ἀρόμην, but the other moods of the latter indic. of both ἡράμην and ἀρόμην, but the other moods of the latter only, τάρωμαι, ἀροίμην, &c. The Attic poets seem to use ἡράμην alone in indic., but other moods (opt. inf.) of both indiscriminately. Eur. and the Comedians, we think, use 1 sor. only. In prose perhaps uniformly ἡράμην and moods. Luc. however has ἀρέσθαι Conv. 42 (Jacobitz, Fritzs.), αἴρεσθαι (Dind.); and later Agath. has ἄροιτο p. 323. There seems to be no certain instance of 2 aor. act. earlier than Agath. quoted, for ἐξάρη once Athen. (Nicoch.) 1, 34, has been displaced by έξάγη (Dind. Meinek.) The act. is exceedingly rare in Epic; but if our best edit. of Her. be correct, he uses parts of this verb more frequently than Lexicogr. allow, see ἀείρω. The initial a of 1 acr. remains long in the moods 'ἀρω, 'ἀρωμω &c. because it is long by compensation before receiving the augm. ἀρα (for ἄρσα), with augm. ηρα; but the lengthening of it in the future seems rather abnormal—Sophocles has avoided it. See ἀείρω.

Υπακούσεται Thuc. 6, 69, is held pass. by some. If so, it is the only instance in classic Greek, see Poppo, Krüger. ἤκουσμαι seems to have better authority than ἀκήκουσμαι, which however, if correct, disproves Buttmann's assertion "that the perf. pass. is formed without reduplication." There is not a single undoubted instance of first fut. ἀκούσω in the whole range of classic Greek, unless aκουσόντων Hyperid. Fun. Or. Col. 13, 3 (Bab.), 178 (Cobet) be correct, which we doubt, both because Hyperid. uses the classic form ἀκούσεσθαι Eux. p. 15, and because the pres. deconforms, a slight and easy change, suits the sense at least equally well. The copyist seems however to have meant the tat., for he has eyemmasorros in the compared clause. And if so, we cannot, with Cobet, condemn the fut. on the ground of its being "plane absurdum." "Nulla unquam," adds he, "fuit oratio neque erit, quae prodesse possit animis eorum qui eam sint audituri, id est quae prosit etiam priusquam audita sit." We think this an undue, and therefore an unfair, limitation of the phrase. The hearing of the things that were to benefit was surely future to his present utterance. Several late writers, from Lycophron onwards, use it freely, Anth. 9, 397; D. Hal. 5, 57; Menand. Rhet. 614; V. T. 2 Reg. 14, 16. Esai. 6, 9; N. T. Matt. 12, 19. 13, 14. Jo. 10, 16; Or. Sib. 4, 174. 8, 104. 206. 345; but even in late writers, the mid. seems to be the prevailing form. be the prevailing form. drove is not the only verb which takes, even in Attic Greek, the temporal as well as the syllabic augment in its plp.; in other words, augments occasionally at least, the reduplicated vowel, ωρώρει Aesch. Ag. 653; Soph. O. C. 1622 (both trimeters), but δρώρει Ar. Pax 1287 (hexam.). In Attic prose, the correct theory would, perhaps, the xam.). In Ame prose, the correct theory would, pernaps, be always to augment it in accordance with occasional cases presented by the best Mss. e. g. ἀπ-ωλώλει Dem. 20, 79 (Ms. S. Dind. now). 19, 125 (most Mss. Bekk. Dind. Bait. Saupp. &c.) Herodian, an able grammarian, would write the plp. of ἀκούω always with η, ἡπηκόειν. But if the best Mss. and editors may be trusted, Herodotus seems never to have augmented the reduplication the Attics to have augmented augmented the reduplication, the Attics to have augmented it, but certainly not "always." The form ἡκηκόη is called old Att. for -εω, Ar. Pax 616 (Bekk. Dind.). Vesp. 800 (Dind. Meineke); Pl. Crat. 384 (Ms. T. Schanz), ἀκηκόη (Bekk. Or. B. W.).

In some edit. various forms of the fut. act. used to stand as follows: ἀκούσει Il. 7, 129, now ἀκούσαι, ἀκούσεις Alcae. Fr. 82 (85), now ἀκούσαις, so Aesch. Ag. 1406 (Blomf.), -ούεις (Mss. Dind. Herm.), ἀκούσετε Ar. Thesm. 1167 (Br.), now -σητε (Bekk. Dind.), so Dem. 18, 160 (Steph.). 25, 85 (some Mss.), now σαιτε (Reisk. Bekk. &c.), ἀκούσομεν Ατ. Ach. 295 (Mss. R. V.), ωμεν (Elms. Bekk. αλήλιφα, αλήλιμαι are now almost universally approved and adopted by late editors, though ἀλήλιιφα, -ειμμαι are found in good Mss. and the latter edited hy Bekker, Aristot. H. A. 5, 19, 8, and by Sintenis, Plut. Marcel. 17, but -ιμμαι (Reisk. Bekk.), so ἀλήλιμμαι, -ιμμένος Mor. 148. 193 (Dübner), -ειπται has been discarded from Luc. also, for -ιπται Catapl. 24. Pisc. 36 (Mss. Jacob. Dind. Bekk.). The unreduplicated forms ἤλειφα, ἤλειμμαι seem scarcely to occur except in comp. and in inferior Mss. απ-ηλειφέναι Dem. 52, 29 (Ms. F.), ἐξ- Aristid. 33, 425 (Vulg.), -αληλιφέναι (Ms. Θ. In Traged. this verb does not occur in the simple form: in Att. prose, the act. occurs only in aor. and only in Plato quoted, and part. ἀλείψαντες Demad. 17 (Bekk.) Hom. has only 1 aor. act. and mid. The 1 aor. pass. is by far the prevailing form, early and late. The only instance of 2 aor. in the classical period is ἐξ-αλιφῆ Pl. Phaedr. 258 (best Mss.), ἐξ-αλειφθῆ (Vulg.) Elsewhere he uses 1 aor. ἀλειφθέν twice Lys. 217, ἐπ- ibid., even ἐξ-αλειφθῆ without v. r. Theaet. 191, so that we have some misgiving about ἐξ-αλιφῆ though presented by Mss. Bodl. D G P. The perf. ἤλοιφα is not found, though we have ἀλοιφή the noun. We doubt however if the noun proves the actual existence of the perf. In formation we think analogy a sufficient guide without current usage.

Soph. quoted, has good Mss. support, but is opposed by εξαλύξωμαι (Hesych.), approved by Wessel. Heath, Br. Herm. and ποιο Dind. We do not however think it a valid objection against εξαλεύσωμαι "that the acristic mid. forms of ἀλεύομαι occur elsewhere invariably without σ," ἢλευάμην, ἀλεύωμαι &c. These forms do, certainly, always occur elsewhere without σ, but then they are Epic, and never appear in Attic. We are therefore not sure that an Attic poet, neither quoting nor imitating nor accommodating an Epic poet, would have felt constrained (by Attic usage) to take the Epic mid. form instead of the form with σ, especially as Attic usage uniformly follows the σ formation in the act. ἀλεύσω, ἤλευσα. Besides, none of the very received the Epic forms.

The v. r. point to the Epic form.

If the first line is made complete, ending with the participle, then ἀληλεσμένον is undoubled, because the form with σ is required by the metre; but if the first line is constituted defective, and the second complete, beginning with the participle, then is -εσμένος not only liable to doubt, but inadmissible, and the form without σ, ἀληλεμένον, absolutely demanded by the metre. Besides, it is the reading of all the Mss. In the classical period, the case, on the whole, seems to stand so: ἀληλεσμένος Her. 7, 23 (no v. r.); Thuc. 4, 26 (Mss. But though Tragic and Comic poets use both aorists, they never use 2 fut. γήσομαι, but always -χθήσομαι; whereas Her. and Attic prose writers use 2 fut. γήσομαι only: -χθήσομαι however is in late prose ἀπ- D. Hal. 7, 13, &- Aristip. in Diog. L. 2, 82; Galen 10, 538. In prose, Her. has both aor. pass. in comp. but the first more frequently, ἀπ-ηλλάχθη 2, 152. 1, 170. 5, 65. 2, 2 (v. r. γην), ἐξ- 5, 4 &c.: 2 aor. ἀπαλλαγῆναι 8, 84, without v. r. (Schweigh. Bekk. Gaisf. &c.): fut. -αλλαγήσομαι 2, 120. Thuc. has always the 2 aor., Xen. almost always, but ἐπ-αλλαχθῆ Mem. 3, 8, 1; so Plato, but δι-αλλαχθωμεν Crat. 430 (Epist. 335-346); and the Orators, but δι-αλλαχθείς Andoc. 2, 26, κατ-Ηγρετίd. Fr. 51 (B. Saupp.) It is therefore a mistake to say that "the Attic Historians, Plato, and the Orators use only the 2 aor.," as well as that "Her. always uses the first."

Porson (Eur. Ph. 986) accounts for the frequent use of 1 aor. in the Tragedians by their loving "rough and old forms." We think this, even with his own limitations, too strong a statement of the case. It appears, however, to be correct in regard to the following verbs and compds. whose 1 aor. pass. is alone or preferably used by the Traged.: ἀγγέλλω, βρέχω, δέρκομαι, κλέπτω, κλίνω, κρύπτω, μάσσω, ρίπτω, στερέω, τάσσω, τέρπω, but in others with some of their compds. it is difficult occasionally to see a preference; nay, sometimes a preference leans the other way: ἀπ-αλλάσσω, βλάπτω, ξεύγνυμι, θάπτω, μίγνυμι, πήγνυμι, πλέκω, πλήσσω, ρήγνυμι, στρέφω, σφάζω, τήκω, τρέπω, τρέφω. The three Traged. have 2 aor. ἀπ-ηλλάγην seemingly by choice, Aesch. Ag. 336; Soph. Ant. 422; Eur. Andr. 592, for here the metre admits ἀπ-ηλλάχθην. βλάπτω, 1 aor. ἀπο-βλαφθείς Soph. From this induction it would appear that, in some verbs, the Traged. used only the 1 aor, or preferred it, or used it freely if the metre required—that in others they were guided by other reasons, use and wont, conventional meaning, peculiar liking, emphasis, harmony, or other causes too hidden for our search, or too fine for our perception.

άλσο, άλτο (άλσο, άλτο Bekk. 2 edit.), άλμενος are, say the old grammarians, Epic syncopated 1 aor. forms, 2 aor. say the later, with spiritus lenis for  $\delta\lambda(\epsilon)\sigma\sigma$ ,  $\delta\lambda(\epsilon)\tau\sigma$ ,  $\delta\lambda(\delta)\mu\epsilon\nu\sigma s = \bar{\eta}\lambda\sigma\nu$ ,  $\bar{\eta}\lambda\epsilon\tau\sigma$ . "a of the 1 sor. is said to be long,  $\delta\lambda\alpha\sigma\theta a$ , as  $\delta\rho a$ ,  $\bar{a}\rho\alpha\sigma\theta a$ ." The a in  $\delta\rho a$ ,  $\bar{a}\rho\alpha\sigma\theta a$  is certainly long, and should, on the same principle, be long also in  $\delta \lambda a \sigma \theta a \iota$ , but we desiderate actual proof: ἀλάμενος Ar. Av. 1395, the only instance in poetry, is unfortunately not decisive. Theod. Kock scans it long 'αλάμ-(Ar. Av. 1864). For ἐνήλου Aesch. Pers. 516, Blomf. and now Dind. (Lex. Aesch.) read 1 aor. ἐνήλω; and for ἐξήλου Soph. O. R. 1311 (chor.), Elms. reads εξάλω, "inaudite δωρίζων" says Ellendt. It may be true that we have in our texts of the Tragedians no instance of this verb in the Doric form, yet in a Chorus, and amid Dorisms, Elmsley's έξάλω seems not so bold. Theocr. has 3 pers. ἐξάλστο 17, 100, how would he have written the 2d? Grammarians account for ἀλσο &c. with lenis, from "a consonant following the λ." How then did άλμα escape? It is more likely that it arose from a liking for easy utterance. See ἀθροίζω, άθρ-, έχω, έξω &c. &c.

Indeed the only instance simple or compd. that we have met is Pl. quoted, and there Mss. and edit. differ, some offering act. ἀνακύψωι τό, others mid. ἀνακύψωι το. And though the weight of authority seems to favour the former, yet the fact of the only other classic instance of fut. being indisputably the mid. form, seems rather to countenance the latter—we are surprised that this has not been urged.

Epist. 12 (Orell.); hither some have referred ασμενος as a syncopated and softened part. for αδόμενος, αδμενος, aσμ-, which it is perhaps better to assign to ήδω. εῦαδον is softened from εΓαδον now edited by Bekker (2 ed.) Buttmann says that after the digamma disappeared the genuine Homeric forms were, without doubt, only έάνδανε, ανδανε, not έήνδανε, ηνδανε, and the Herodotean ηνδανον, not εάνδ-, after the analogy of ωρων. We are not sure that it is quite fair to infer with Buttm. that because the aor. was «Fade, åade, åde, the imp. must have been the latter when it had gone. Thus: old form Fardáro, imp. with outline it had gone. digamma softened to ε, εάνδανον, contr. ήνδανον, with syllabic augm. έἡνδανον. Compare Γέλπομαι, ἐέλπετο, ἥλπετο Il. 25, 539. 17, 395 &c. (old reading.) Γέργω, ἐέργω, εἷργω, &c. In this way without, as we think, violating analogy, may be defended εἡνδανε, ἤνδανε, as equally genuine and older than ἐάνδ-, ἄνδ-. In Her. ຖືນປີໝາຍ, ເພິ່ນປີ- have equal support, ຖືນປີ- 7, 172. 8, 29, ເພິ່ນປີ- 9, 5. 19, of which Buttm. and Bredow (Dial. Ant. 282, -éos O. C. 883. Her. presents three instances of double augm. ἢνέσχ-, and three of single, ἀνεσχ-, each without v. r., and what is rather curious, the instances of the former are all in sing. πρέσχετο, of the latter, all in pl. ἀνέσχοντο. That the Attic poets do not confine ἀνεσχόμην "to the chorus," but use it as well as ήνεσχ- in trimeters, appears from Aesch. Ch. 747, more especially Eur. Hipp. 687, where ηνεσχ- could not stand. Hom. Od. 19, 111, has 3 sing. pres. ἀνέχησί for -έχει, as if from ἀνέχημι, unless it be subj. for -ησι, which Bekker, Ameis and La Roche edit. The only instance we have met of the pass. v. is ἀνέχεται 4 Maccab. 1, 35 (Apel, Bekk. ἀντέχ- Gaisf.) Ανέωνται, see ϊημι, ἀφίημι.

Of this verb, Attic prose writers use neither 1 sor. nor 1 fut. pass. Aesch. has 2 sor. pass. only, Soph. and Eur. have both first and second, but the first more frequently, not however for Porson's reason, for Soph. Ant. 422, and Eur. Andr. 592, would admit the first. Her. never augments the imp.: always the 1 sor. sot.: varies in the p. p. and 1 sor.

Sc. 173, not pass. but having taken each for himself the life of the other—deprived each other of life. For ἀπηύρατο Od. 4, 646 (Vulg.), Wolf, Bekker, and Dind. adopt the v. r. ἀπηύρα, and for ἀπηύρω Aesch. Pr. 28 (Vulg.), Herm. with Ms. M. reads ἐπηύρω, Elms. Dind. and Weil ἐπηύρου. Ahrens tries very ingeniously to account for the seeming anomalous forms of this verb by supposing a digammated stem in Γράω=Γρύω, ἐρύω. ἀπούρας, ἀπουράμενος are thus softened from ἀπόΓρας, ἀποΓράμενος: and ἀπηύρας, -ηύρατο are improperly written for ἀπεύρας (ἀπέΓρας), -εύρατο. There is, besides, an interchange of conjugations; ἀπηύρων, at least, is from -άω, and ἀπηύρω, -ηύρατο from -μι. Compare γαμέω, ἔγημα, ἐγημάμην.

The earliest instance we know of fut. act. is άπολαύσομεν Hyperid. Or. Funebr. Col. 11, 142 (Bab.) This however we think a false reading for -σόμεθα, both because the classic writers invariably use the mid. form, and because the identical blunder occurs Pl. Charm. 172, where Par. E. alone of all the Mss. presents ἀπολαύσομεν, the rest, and all editions ἀπολαυσόμεθα. Cobet, strange to say, retains the Ms. reading because, says he, "utraque forma usu trita est." Each may be trita, but still keep to its own walk. Aor. m. ἀπελαυσάμην Ar. Av. 1358 (Br.) is a creation of Reiske's, and silently adopted by Brunck for ἀπέλαυσα the reading of the Mss. and all previous and subsequent editions; and inf. -λαύσασθαι, which used to stand Themist. Or. 9, 124, has been displaced by fut. -λαύσεσθαι (Dind.); but still in text subj. ἀπολαύσωμαι Aristaen. 2, 5 (Pauw, -σομαι ed. Samb. approved by Pauw, now -σαίμεν Hercher.) This verb is never in Epic; in Trag. Eur. only; oft in Comedy.

Thiersch says it is from root fape, whence βαρύς, βαρέ-ος, and bairan, bar (Goth.) to bear, bore, and with the strengthening a (ἀfαρημένος, ἀαρημένος) ἄρημένος. Others suppose it may be abbreviated from βεβαρημένος by β as representing the digamma (fεfαρημένος, βεβαρ-, as fρόδον, βρόδον, ρόδ-) disappearing, ἀαρημένος, contr. ἄρημένος. We think Homeric usage against this. He has βεβαρηότες, -ηότα Od. 3, 139. 19, 122, when he might have used ἄρηότες. Besides, does β ever represent the digamma in Hom.?

Some Grammarians and Lexicogr. have maintained that the  $\upsilon$  is short even in Attic, and appeal for proof to ἀρτύσω in a Fr. of Soph. Athen. 68 (Fr. 601, Dind.). The words are έγω μάγειρος ἀρτύσω σοφῶς, wanting a foot to complete the verse. But unless we know whether the missing foot stood at the beginning or the end, the line proves nothing. If it ended the line, v is short, as -ύσω would form the fourth foot; if it began the line, -ύσω would form the fifth, and therefore may have u long. Neither is καταρτύσων μολείν O. C. 71, decisive, owing to -ύσων occupying the fifth foot. It suggests, however, the probability that the defective line ended with ἀρτύσω σοφῶς. The fut. act. ἀρτύσεις is indisputably long in Anth. Matthiae proposed, needlessly we think, to read αὖδησον for αΰδασον Eur. Ph. 124. Antigone has struck up the "Dorio strain," and though her utterance here, as elsewhere, takes shape in a trimeter, she is still in Doric mood. αύδασον Occurs also in a trimeter ascribed to Aeschylus, Fr. 19 (Dind.), but too isolated to yield any safe inference. This verb is almost exclusively Epic, Lyric, and Tragic. We think it occurs once only in prose, Her. 2, 57, and twice in comedy, αὐδῶ Ar. Ran. 369, pass. αὐδώμενος Com. Fr. (Alex.) ατ. ακ. 3, 492, comp. ἀπ-αυδῶ Ar. Ran. 369, -αυδᾶ Eq. 1072, πρωυδᾶν Αν. 556. Mss. offer ὀπ-ασσον, ὀπανσον &c. Briggs' emendation ἐπάπνσον Dor. aor. of ἐπηπνω satisfies the sense, and is adopted by Meineke and Ziegler; but does it heal the metre? The aor. of ἀπνω is indisputably long Eur. Rhes. 776, and in no instance have we found either it or fut. decidedly short. Hermann very ingeniously changes ἐπ- of the common reading ἐπάσον into ἔτ', and preserves the quantity of ν by transposing ἄνσον to the end of the line. Thus: for ἐπ | άνσον | δ φίλε, | κείσαι ἡ κείσαι. We think neither way happy. κάπνον aor. of καπνω suits the metre, and, if it suit the sense, is perhaps as near the Mss. reading as other conjectures. Ahrens, we observe, reads ἐπαίᾶσον. ἄ Hom. ἄ Pind. ἀντάνσε P. 4. 107.

To this verb has been assigned έωμεν (εωμεν) as a lengthened subj., with change of accent, for ωμεν, cf. στέωμεν II. 11, 348, φθέωσι Od. 24, 437. Spitzner derives it from a kindred form έω to satiate oneself. It may however be 2 aor. of a form in μι (ἄημι), and its intrans. meaning, satiate onself, get a glut of, strengthens this view: it would then be 2 aor. subj. 1 pl. α-ωμεν contr. διμεν, lengthened τωμεν, with change of spirit and accent έωμεν; and αμεναι also intrans. will rank as its inf. with ā by arsis. From the examples given above, Kühner's assertion appears to be too strong "that the I sor, is found in the participle only, except ¿βίωσε Xen. Oec. 4, 18:" and W. Dind. is, we think, rash in expelling 1 aor. from Xen. If the part. is right in Plato, the indic. seems not far wrong in Xen. The Ionians used both aorists, why might not the Attics, Xen. especially, occasionally use the first?

Fut. act. we think at least doubtful in the earlier Attics: βλέψω Eur. Hec. 585, seems subj. aor.: and ἀντιβλέψετε (Dem.) 25, 98, is opposed by ἀντιβλέψεσθε (Mss. F. V. Vulg. Dind. Oxf. 1848), which, one would suppose, is more likely to be the true reading, as the mid. form βλέψεσθε occurs a few lines before. Dind. however in his last edit. 1855, adopts ἀντιβλέψετε with Bekk. B. S. βλέψεις in some edit. of Sappho, Fr. 11, 7 (Brunck, Anal. 1, 57) is pretty evidently a late interpolation.

perhaps insufficient grounds, "medio non usitato" (Koechly). That the mid. is used, simple and compd., the quotations given above sufficiently prove. Koechly, on his alleged grounds of preference, had perhaps better reasons for quarrelling with aor. mid. βλάψωνο 5, 466, which, we think, is an unique instance of the simple aor. mid.

Her., according to Mss. and most edit., generally uses this verb in the Attic form βοηθέω, ἐβοήθεω, ἐβοήθου, ἐβοήθησα, but occasionally in the Ionic, ἐβώθεε 9, 23, ἐπ- 8, 1. 14: ἐβώθησαν 8, 47, ἐπ- 8, 45; βωθήσας 8, 72; προ-βωθήσαι 8, 144 (Gaisf. Bekk. Krüg. &c.), Stein always βοηθ-; Dind. and Abicht again edit, we think, in every case βωθέω, ἐβώθεε, ἐβώθησα, &c. "because in Ionic οη contract into ω." This reason would have been stronger had the verb been exclusively or even chiefly Ionic or poetic. On the contrary, it is very frequent in Attic, and prosaic, occurring once or twice in Tragedy, rarely even in Comedy, never, we think, in good Epic. It seems to us therefore as likely that Her. meant to use the Attic form, but was occasionally surprised into the Lonic. Hippocr. we think never has the contr. form βωθ-, but always βοηθέω, see 1, 598. 8, 402. 9, 208. 218. 234. 268, βοηθησων (Epist.) 9, 420. In a Cretan Inscr. occurs fut. βοηθησίοντι (Bergm.)

If the anonymous author de Mulieribus &c. has quoted exactly, the 1 aor. forms ἐγάμησα, ἐγαμήθην are as early as Ctesias, a contemporary of Xen., see Ctesias, Fr. de Rebus Assyr. 1, 5 (Müller.) ἐγάμησε of the woman, Trag. Fr. Adesp. 157 (Nauck), and ἐγημάμην of the male, Com. Fr. (Antiph.) 3, 24; -άμενος Apollod. 3, 12, 6. For γαμέσσεται Il. 9, 394, the only instance of this form, Bekker adopts, perhaps rightly, γε μάσσεται, the reading of Aristarchus. γαμοῦμαι mid. signifies to give oneself, or one's own in marriage: a woman γαμεῖται, bestows herself; a man γαμεῖται γυναῖκά τωι bestows a female subject or relation in marriage, Πηλεύς μοι γυναῖκα γαμέσσεται (if correct) will bestow one a wife, one of his subjects Il. 9, 394; and if we may suppose that the Attics used it in this sense, it would favour the reading θυγατέρ ἢν τ ἐγήματο Eur. Med. 262, whom he gave in marriage, against ἢ τ ἐγήματο who married him. The latter however is maintained by some of the ablest scholars, Elms. Matth. Hartung, Dind. and, perhaps, Porson, though he retained ἢν in the text, see note 264. If γαμοῦμαι alone is used of a man, it is in ridicule, as γαμεῖται ἔκαστος Luc. V. H. 1, 22; ἐγήματο Anacr. 86 (Bergk); Antiph. Com. Fr. quoted; see however Q. Sm. 1, 728; Apollod. 3, 12, 6.

Philopatr. 23, is a quotation from Hom.: perf.  $\gamma i \gamma \eta \theta a$  oft in poet and prose, see above. There seems to be no doubt that the pres. was in use with the Epic and Pastoral poets: its use with the Attic poets depends on the soundness of Aesch. Ch. 772. Herm. begs the question when he says "the Attics did not use the pres."

The imp. ἐπ-εγήθει Aesch. Pr. 157 (Vulg. Paley, formerly Dind.) seems to favour the use of the pres. Elms. however, Blomf. Herm. and now Dind. 5 ed. read plp. ἐγεγήθει, not on documentary evidence, but on the Attic usage of the perf. Herm. adds "and plp." Of the plp. however, the perf. Herm. adds "and plp." Of the plp. however, the perf. Herm. adds "and plp." only trace in Attic is their own emendation, and a v. r. in Mss. D. E.

for ἐγένετο. The aor. p. ἐγενήθην is scarcely, if at all, used by the early Attics, for γενηθέντες Pl. Leg. 840 (Ms. V. Steph.) has been displaced by γεννηθέντες; and ἐξ-εγενήθη Phil. 62 (Steph.
Bekk.) should perhaps be ἐξ-εγένετο (Heind. Stallb. B. O. W.
Herm, &c.), though, in candour, we cannot say that its claim for reception is inferior to its fut. The fut. pass. γενηθήσομαι occurs only Pl. Parm. quoted, and is by some held doubtful;

Dind. thinks Schleiermacher's suggestion, γεγενήσομα, is the right reading. Hom. Hes. and, we think, Her. never use p. p. γεγένημαι, but 2 p. γέγονα: Thuc. again, seems not to have used γέγονα, and Plato to have used it far more frequently than γεγένημαι: generally, the Attic writers use both forms. The Epic forms ἐκγεγάασθε Hom. Epigr. 16, 3 Suid. Herm. (ἐκγεγάατε Vulg.), lengthened from ἐκγεγάσθε, and ἐκ-γεγάονται which Suffee says is fut. for -γεγάσονται Hom. H. Ven. 197, if correct, imply a pres. m. γεγάσμαι from p. γέγαι: see also ἐκγεγάσντο, -άοντο? Anth. 15, 40, 20, see (γάω). Hom. Hes. Pind. Thuc. Plato, the Tragedians, Aristoph. and generally Xen. use γίγνομαι; Her. and frequently late writers from Aristot. onwards have γίνομαι; the Orators vary, but the latest edit. of Lys. generally, Isocr. and Dem. perhaps always, present γίγν-. Sm. 5, 247, δαμώωνται 5, 249. seem to be pres. Hom. has both aorists pass. in the double form ἐδαμάσθην, ἐδμήθην, 2 ἐδάμην: so Pind. -άσθην twice, Ol. 2, 20. P. 1, 73, -άθην once, P. 8, 17; 2 -άμην thrice, Ol. 1, 41. P. 3, 9. Fr. 203 (Bergk): so also the Traged. -άσθην Aesch. thrice, Pers. 279. Sept. 338. 765; Eur. thrice, H. F. 21. Supp. 1011. Phoen. 563, (-ήθην) always in chor. and always in the Dor. from -άθην Aesch. once, Pers. 906; Eur. four times, Alc. 127. Tr. 175. I. T. 198. 230; 2 ἐδάμην Aesch. eight, Sept. 608. Pr. 426. 602. 861. Ch. 367. Ag. 1451. 1495. 1519; Eur. four, Med. 648. Or. 845. Rh. 764. I. A. 623; Soph. four times and this form alone, El. 845. Tr. 432. Ph. 200. 335. It would thus appear that the 2 αστ. ἐδάμην is rather the prevailing form in Pindar, and more than doubly so in the Tragedians. That the form ἐδμήθην is not Attic, is pretty plain from Eur. I. A. 623 (trimeter), where, in the fifth foot, he avoids δμηθείς, and uses δαμείς. The 2 αστ. αct. ἔδαμον, and perf. δέδμηκα, are confined, we think, to lexicons.

In the aorist, Epic writers, at least most of our editions, double the δ after the augment: ἔδδεισα Il. 1, 33. 10, 240. 20, 61. 23, 11. 1, 33. 10, 240. 20, 01. 23, 425 &c.; Callim. Dian. 51; Ap. Rh. 3, 435, ὑποδδείσαις II. 12, 413. 18, 199. 22, 282. Od. 9, 377. 10, 296; Ap. Rh. 4, 394, but ὑποδείσαιτε Od. 2, 66. This singularity has been attributed to the digamma. But, admitting the digamma, we think its operation to complined and freekish to be the true. we think its operation too confined and freakish to be the true cause. It is dormant except in the aorist, and even there refuses to awake unless on special occasions, by a very near approach or actual contact, and not always even then. would rather say that the lengthening of the e is a metrical exigency, and, on the analogy of other short vowels similarly situated, does not require the doubling of the  $\delta$ . When the vowel is in arsis, there is surely little need; for why should e require two δs in ἔδδει σεν ὑπέν |ερθε Il. 20, 61, and put up with one in δε δεί σαντες Od. 9, 236. τε δεί ση Il. 24, 116? And even in thesis there is no absolute necessity; for if Homer allowed himself to write the gen. of are \(\pi \tilde{\chi} \) io \(\bar{\chi}\) Il. 15, 554, why might he not lengthen ε, similarly situated, in χαλε|πὴν ε|δείσατε Il. 13, 624, and τοὶ δ' ἔδ|εισαν Od. 10, 219, instead of ἐδδει-? It appears to us that in the first case the stress has been laid on the vowel, and left no trace; in the second, it has been laid on the consonant, and generated its like. But by the Poet, or the Editor? Are there metrical or rational grounds for the difference? We are inclined to think that Bekker is right in editing their and the think that Bekker is right in editing their and the think that Bekker is right in editing their and the think that Bekker is right in editing their and the think that Bekker is right in editing the think th always with single  $\delta$  in his last edition (1859). The following examples may, by shewing the usage, serve to aid the easier comprehension of the case: no doubling of the  $\delta$  (=digamma) beyond the aor. ωδέ γ' έ δείδιμεν Il. 6, 99, κεί νου γάρ έ δει- Il. 5, 790, γάρ κάλ' ἐβείδισαν 15, 652 (Bekk.), -ον καὶ ἐδείδισαν 7, 151, τίπτε σὺ δείδοικ- Il. 12, 244, περῖ δείδια, Il. 10, 93; where no trace of it appears even in the aor. τῶν δ' ἄρα δεισάντων. Od. 12, 203. 24, 534, ὑπο-|δείσατε| Od. 2, 66; where δ is doubled perhaps unnecessarily, ¿deura Il. 1, 33, &c. &c., see above. The instances of deide in pres. beyond the 1 pers. sing. are rare, and by some thought doubtful, deidere Anth. Pal. 9, 147, deidouer Dio. Hal. Ant. 6, 32. The correction to deidire, dediner is easy, and in Dio. Hal. has now been made, but the question is as easy, and not unreasonable—would later writers feel themselves restricted to exactly Homeric usage?

Perf. δέδοικα, plp. ἐδεδοίκειν seem confined to the indic. usually singular, part. and inf.; subj. δεδοίκωσι, however, Hippocr. 4, 166 (Mss. B. M. N. Lit.): δέδια, again, is used throughout, but less frequently, in indic. sing. perf. and plp.: of δέδοικα, good prose writers use 1 and 3 sing. the pl. is Poet.: of ἐδεδοίκειν they use 1 and 3 sing. and 3 pl.; δεδοικώς rarely; δεδοικέναι perhaps never (Pl.) Ax. 372. These are partially supplied by (δέδια), δέδιμεν, δέδιτε, δεδίασι; δεδιώς freq. Antiph. 2, δ, 1; Dem. 18, 263. 23, 126 &c. &c.; δεδιέναι Hippocr. 1222 (Foes); Thuc. 1, 136; Pl. Conv. 198 &c. See δίω. Cobet (Nov. Lect. p. 588) says "forma δείσομαι a Grammaticis ficta est, neque usquam in Graecorum libris legitur," and on this ground objects to L. Dindorf's reading δείσει Xen. An. 7, 3, 26, for δείσης (Vulg. Krüg. Saupp.) Hom. has this fut. twice indisputably: Cobet would, therefore, have taken safer ground if he had denied its Hom only in some forms of the press act. and imp. paga: in Hom. only in some forms of the pres. act. and imp. pass.: in Attic prose, it is confined to Thuc. and Xen.; in Attic poetry, to Soph. and Aristoph., and only once in each. We have noticed this verb, not because it is irregular, but because it has been ill handled by our Lexicogrs.

This verb seems never to be augmented in Her. In classic Attic, διαιτάω, in the simple form, has double augm. in the perf. and plp. only, δεδιήτηκα, έδεδιητήκει, but late διητημένος Herodn.

6, 9, 5 (Bekk.); Galen 6, 249; Oribas. 2, 41; διητήσθαι Galen 5, 32; even in Lys. Cobet edits ἐδιητώμην 1 1, 9. 32, 8, for διητ-(Mss. edit.); in comp. all the augmented tenses have double augm. imp. κατ-εδιήτα: aor. ἀπ-εδιήτησα, κατ-, μετ-: ἐξεδιητήθην: but late συν-διητάτο Plut. Dion. 17; Themist. 32, 385; Aesop 346 (Halm); sometimes, also the classic rule is observed, διήτησε 4 Macc. 2, 17, but ἐξ-εδιήτησε 4, 19. The mid. does not follow a different law from the act.

In this verb the Attics preferred the initial augment, and a unchanged; and on this ground Hermann altered διηκόνουν Eur. Cycl. quoted, to ἐδιᾶκ- which all but Kirchhoff, we think, have adopted. In 2 edit. however, he too now adopts it (1868).

This verb seems to occur only twice in Trag. and only in 2 aor. Soph. and Eur. quoted. We have never seen διδράσκω uncomp. except part. διδράσκων in Hesych. Of the pure press. form διδράω, ἀπο- &c. we know no instance: συν-αποδράν Herodn. 1, 10 (Vulg.) is now -δράναι (Bekk.) The 1 aor. does not now occur in classic Greek: ἀποδράσασα Andoc. 1, 125 (Vulg.), ἀποδράσα (Bekk.), ἀποδράσας Lys. 6, 28 (old edit.) was altered by Reiske to ἀποδράς, which has been adopted by Bekker and every subsequent editor, ἀποδράση Xen. Cyr. 1, 4, 13 (Vulg.), now ἀποδρά (best Mss. Schneid. Popp. Dind.), ἐξέδρασ Eur. I. T. 194 (Mss. Vulg. Musgr. Seidler), now ἐξ ἔδρας in every edit. &c. In recent editions of even late auth. the 2 aor. has often been restored, ἀποδρώσωσι Dio Cass. 43, 38 (Vulg.), ἐκδρῶσι (Bekk. L. Dind.); ἐξέδρασεν 78, 34 (Vulg.), ἐξέδρα (Bekk.), ἀποδράση Theophr. Char. 18 (Foss), ἀποδρά (Dind.), ἀποδράσασα Plut. Mor. 767 (Vulg.), ἀποδρᾶσα (Ms. E. Winck. Dübn.) &c. see above. Mid. aor. ἀποδράσασθα, if correct, Philon. vol. 1, p. 551, 31, which should perhaps be altered to fut. -άσεσθαι Galen 9, 272, as διαδράσασθαι has been to -άσεσθαι Dio Cass. 43, 40. We have not seen the 3 pl. syncop. form ἀπ-έδρᾶν in classic prose.

In Hippocr. however δφη is still read 1, 313 (Erm. 2, 318, Lit. v. r. δοίη); and Schanz seems inclined to replace it from the best Mss. in some passages of Plato (Phaedo 63.) Haer. 6, 21. 10, 6: δοκηθείς Agath. 1, 7. Vb. in ἀδόκητος Pind. N. 7, 31; Thuc. 7, 29. Hom. never has the short form (δόκω), δόξω, and of δοκέω only pres. and once aor. δόκησε: Soph. excepted, the Tragedians and Aristoph. use both formations, δόξω, -κήσω: ἔδοξα, -κησα: but δεδόκηκα only: of (δέδογμαι) only δέδοκται, δεδογμένος, and of (δεδόκημαι) only δεδόκησαι. But Aristoph., we think, never uses the long forms in trimeters, Aesch. and Eur. do, at least fut. and aor. act. The part. δεδοκημένος is Epic, and never used in the sense determined, resolved, but act. watching, waiting, and usually referred to δέχομαι. We have sometimes thought it might be referred to donie, with the sense (bethought), in earnest anxious thought, hence watching; or that it belongs to the mid. form δοκίομαι think for oneself, bethink oneself in reference to the actions or intentions of another, observe, watch, &c., in which sense δοκεύμενοι occurs Orph. Arg. 1359, εδοκέοντο Opp. C. 4, 296; and that the Epics used δεδοκημένος as its perf. in this same mid. sense, Il. 15, 730; Hes. Sc. 214, and that other writers used indic. (δεδόκημαι), δεδόκησαι, -ηται (δεδοκημένος never), and δέδοκται, δεδογμένος as pass. thought out, determined. This is more direct than the derivation from δέχομαι, δέκομαι, δοκέομαι, and the meaning appears as legitimate, and not less natural.

In late Epic, δοκεύμενος signifies both to seem, Opp. Cyn. 4, 109, and to watch, Orph. Arg. 1359.

Hec. 253) maintained, with the Atticist, dúng to be the prose Attic form compare Soph Ph. 2 and O. P. to be the more Attic form, compare Soph. Ph. 849, and O. R. 696 (Nauck), Herm. in his last edit. of Soph. Phil. (1839) decidedly inclines to it, Ellendt approves, and Dind. now adopts it Soph. Ph. 798; Eur. Hec. 253. Andr. 239 quoted (where Paley agrees); so Aesch. uses ἐπίστα Eum. 86. 581 (Ion. ἐπίστη Theogn. 1085). δύνα is also Dor. Theocr. 10, 2; to which some add Soph. Ph. 849 (chor.), see above; so ἐπίστα Pind. P. 3, 80. If Porson be right, and perhaps he is, dura is in Attic poet. 2 sing. indic.; δύνη subj. Ar. In Bekker's Her. the syllab. augm. is, we think, uniformly  $\epsilon$ , in Gaisf. frequently  $\eta$ , 4, 110. 185. 9, 70 &c.; so Stein in the two last. In some late critical editions of Attic prose authors, the temporal augm. is losing ground: W. Dind. has dropped it entirely in Dem., Scheibe in Isae., Franke in Aeschin., and Lud. Dind. is dropping it in Xen. (4 edit.), and Stahl in Thuc. Benseler however, in accordance with the Mss., edits uniformly hour in Isocr. υ, but δυναμένοιο by arsis, Od. 1, 276. 11, 414.

ύπόδυθι Ar. Vesp. 1158, -δύσασθαι 1159, -υσάμενος 1168, have been altered by a late Editor to ὑποδοῦ, ὑποδήσασθαι, -δησάμενος, most unnecessarily, we think, especially in a comic writer. Ar. has said ὑποδυόμενος ὑπὸ τῶν κεραμίδων Vesp. 205: if therefore it is correct when applied to creeping under the roof of a house, we don't see how it may not legitimately express the moving of the foot under the roof of one's shoes. ὑποδῦσα θαλάσσης εὐρέα κόλπον Od. 4, 435, does not express going under the bottom of the sea, but only the surface, answering to the upper leather of a shoe. We are sorry to observe Dindorf giving in to this change: it is unworthy of him. ὑπόδυθι τὰς λακωνικάς seems to be explained by ἔνθες πόδ' 1161.

Rh. 2, 65. 4, 1700, compare ην, for ήσαν, Hes. Th. 321. In Her. Gaisf. always writes plp. with augm. ήδεε &c. except συν-είδεε 8, 113 (Mss. S. P. F. - ήδεε Vulg. Bekk. Bred. Dind. Krüg.) σίδας 2 sing. perf. we might have said is rare in any class of writers. The only instance of it in Hom. is Od. 1, 337, where however Bekker reads ήδης. But yet it occurs twice in Theogn. 491. 957; twice in Hym. Merc. 456. 467; once in Eur. Alc. 780; Philem. Com. Fr. 4, 14. Strat. 4, 546. Phoenicid. 4, 510; twice in Her. 3, 72. 4, 157 (Orac.); Hippocr. 2, 370 (Lit.); and once in Xen. Mem. 4, 6, 6 (Mss. Kühn. Breitb. &c. σίσθα Dind. now, Saupp.) It occurs occasionally also later, Aristot. Soph. El. 20, 3. 24, 2; Babr. 95, 14; Plut. Fab. 17. Pomp. 27; Dio. Hal. 16, 4; Himer. 5, 6; Luc. Catapl. 2. (Asin.) 11; Alciphr. 1, 29. 34. On the form σίσθας scholars differ widely: some condemn it as barbarous, Bentley approved and Nauck has lately edited it in Eur. Alc. 780; so in Ion 999 (Dind. 5 ed.) Hirschig has altered τδωμαι Ar. Vesp. 182, to τδω ναί on the ground that the "mid. is not used in trimeters." This does not hold in the indic. opt. and imper. εἰδόμην Ι saw, Aesch. Pers. 179, κατ- Soph. El. 892 (trim.); εἰσ-ἰδοινο Soph. Tr. 151 (trim.); ἰδοῦ Aesch. Ch. 231. 247, τδεσθε 973. 980; Eur. Heracl. 29. Ion 1279 (trimet.); and even the subj. ἰδώμεθα is used by Aesch. in a trimeter Eum. 142, so Dionys. προ-ίδηται Com. Fr. 3, 547 (Dobr. Mein. προίδη τε Mss.), and Ar. himself has ἐπ-ιδώμεθα Nub. 289, but in Lyric metre; we therefore question the propriety of disturbing, especially in a comic author, τδωμαι Vesp. 182, and think that Bergk has done wisely in retaining it. Dind. in his 4 edit. made the same alteration, without giving his reasons; but in his 5 edit. he has recalled τδωμαι. Buttmann, under ὁράω says "the mid. δρᾶσθαι, ἰδέσθαι in simple, is exclusively poetic." This is true of Attic classic prose, but as regards Ionic and late Attic prose, it is a considerable mistake; see the moods of εἰδόμην above.

Imp. mid. ημην seems doubtful in classic authors. Of the old Grammarians, some rejected, others received it with a caution. It occurs in some Mss. and editions of Soph. Tr. 24. Aj. 679, where now stand with general approval ημην, ημῶν; so in Eur. Hel. 931 (Choerobosc. Etym. Mag. Nauck), but altered to τρ ην from Mss. by Herm. Kirchh. Paley, W. Dind. 5 ed.; in Xen. Cyr. 6, 1, 9, L. Dind. Breitb. and Sauppe read ην; in Lys. 7, 34, Dobree, Bait. Saupp. read ετην, Westerm. η μήν, Scheibe εἰμι; and for 3 pl. ετατο Od. 20, 106 (Aristarch. Wolf, Dind.) ετατο they sat, is adopted by Bekker, Ameis, La Roche &c. with Herodian. In late authors ημην is not unfrequent, Alciphr. 3, 13. 54; Long. 4, 28; Luc. D. Mort. 28, 2. (Asin.) 15. 46; Plut. Solon 28. Alex. 14. 29. Mor. 174. 180. 222. 225; Ach. Tat. 4, 1. 5, 1 (Herch.), παρ- Long. 2, 5, pl. very rare, see N. Test. quoted. In Luc. however, Fritzsche and Dind. often challenge it.

The following are some of the more striking dialectic forms and usages: 2 sing. εἶs (εἵs Bekk.) for εἶ, is Ionic Il. 21, 150; Her. 1, 207, ἐμέν for ἐσμέν, Soph. El. 21 (Schneid. &c.) is very doubtful, more certain Callim. Fr. 294; opt. 1 pl. εἶμεν for εἴημεν is not frequent, Eur. Hipp. 349 (trimet.). Alc. 921 (chor.); Pl. Theaet. 147. Rep. 558. Men. 86, not in Hom., εἶτε Od. 21, 195; and if correct, Soph. Ant. 215 (D.); Eur. Fr. 781, 56 (D.), seems not to occur in prose, but εἴησαν and εἶεν often, εἶησαν Her. 1, 2. 2, 6. 102. 3, 119. 4, 46; Antiph. 3, δ, 6; Thuc. 1, 9. 2, 72. 3, 22. 6, 96; Pl. Gorg. 492; Xen. Dindorf, Cobet, Voemel, Franke, &c. write, or would write ήσαν, απ-ησαν, προσ-ησαν, συνŷou as the genuine Attic form—and say that though nearly obliterated by ignorant copyists, this form still occasionally shews in the best Mss. Under παρησαν, for instance, Dem. 1, 8, lurks, they allege,  $\pi a \rho \hat{\eta} \sigma a \nu$ , and so now they edit. If  $\hat{\eta} \epsilon \iota \nu$  was not employed in, it seems to have at least partially followed, the inflection of the pluperf.  $\hat{\eta} \epsilon(\iota) \sigma a \nu$  would appear to be its legitimate 3 pl., and the mistake, if mistake it be, of retaining e, appears as easily made and as great as our moved for mov'd, loved for lov'd, and fixed for fix'd, fixt. Judging from appearances one would be apt to suppose that the Ionians said (hierar) hierar, Poet. hora, the Attics (heirar), herar, Poet. and perhaps occasionally in prose hora.

I pers. eina is rare in Attic, einas freq., but disputed in Hom. Wolf, with Schol. Ven. B., adopted eines for -as, Il. 1, 106. 108, and Spitzn. has followed him. Bornemann decidedly approves and edits -ov, and so now L. Dind. (3 edit.); opt. etraini &c. is very rare in Attic, so rare as to appear doubtful, and, if we may credit the Mss., never even in Herodotus, see above; the imperat. forms, again, elmaro, eimaro, eimare are more used by the Attics than the corresponding forms of the 2 sor.; inf. elmas is not in Attic; part. etras occasionally in later Com. poetry, but scarcely, if ever, in classic Attic prose. Kühner (Xen. Mem. 2, 2, 8) says 'the Attics avoided I pl. einauer, but used freely einare.' Bekk. and Bergk have edited I pers., Ar. quoted above, and Aristot. Eth. Nic. 1, 11, 12. The form which doubles the preposition, as εξεκκλησίασα, though well supported, Thuc. 8, 93, is probably a mistake for εξεκλησ- which occurs in good Mss. and is now adopted by the best editors: it is certain however in late Greek, εξεκκλησίασεν Septuag. Num. 20, 10. 3 Reg. 8, 1 &c. The unaugmented imp. ἐκκλησίαζον Lys. 12, 73, quoted, seems more than doubtful, since at 13, 73. 76, occurs the augmented form εξεκλησίαζον (Mss. Bekk. Scheib. Cobet, ήκκλ- Frohb.) Wm. Dindorf would, in classic Attic, uniformly augment with η, ηκκλησίαζον, ηκκλησίασα. This, no doubt, is more in accordance with strict rule, and is sometimes favoured by the best Mss.; but were the Attics always observant of law, and free from the bias of a false analogy? cf. ἐγκωμιάζω.

Od. 12, 439: fut. late ἐμεθήσεται, ἐξ- V. T. Job 20, 15. Mid. aor. subj. ἐμέσηται, if correct, Hippocr. 2, 494 (Lit.), see below. For the rare nor, form ἐξ-ἡμησα in Hes. quoted. Passow below. For the rare sor. form εξ-ήμησα in Hes. quoted, Passow suggested, and Herm. and Goettling adopted the Homeric -ήμεσσα. εξήμησε however may also in point of form, be from έξαμάω to cut out, a suitable sense enough, if that sense suit the Myth. Nor is it quite free from suspicion in Hippocrates, for though ὑπερ-εμήση, -εμήσειε, -εμήσαι, -εμήσαι occur vol. 7, 10. 30. 32 (Lit.), yet we have ὑπερ-εμέσωσι twice without v. r. on p. 12, έμέση 28. 86. 100, ἀπ- 110. 194. 288, ἐμεσάτω twice 60, ἐμέσαι 112 &c. In fact, the  $\eta$  occurs only in the comp. with  $i\pi i\rho$ , and that, as we have seen, not constantly. But as  $i\pi i\rho$  possesses no recognised peculiar privilege of lengthening, and as above thirty instances of aor. occur in the 2nd and 5th vols. of Littre's edition without a trace of  $\eta$  in the Mss., we cannot help thinking ὑπερήμησα a decided mistake for ὑπερήμεσα, and ought to be forthwith expelled. Dindorf, with we think less than his usual sifting caution, has allowed ὑπερήμησ- to pass unchallenged in Steph. Thes. At 2, 494 (Lit.) ἐμέσηται subj. aor. mid. has been challenged as an 'unauthorised form,' and the fut. ἐμέσσται proposed as the 'true form.' Ermerins 1, 353, reads enteral with Mss. A. C. The subj. however has Ms. support as well as the fut., and though not necessary in point of syntax after δκως μή, is yet perfectly legitimate, see Her. 6, 85 (Gaisf. Dind. Bekk.), Thuc. 1, 73. 4, 66; for ὑπελεύσηται which follows in the same construction, and may be suspiciously rare, we would suggest ύπολύσηται as more appropriate, and less objectionable in form.

that 'the later Epic writers appear to have misunderstood the Homeric acceptation of  $\epsilon \pi \epsilon \nu \hat{\eta} \nu \omega \theta a$ .' It has been said that 'the compound with ratá has the same meaning as the other (enevýνοθα), and seems to have been assumed for the sake of the metre.' This is curiously incorrect. We venture to say that, on a careful examination, it will be found that the two compounds are in every instance purposely used in their distinctive meanings, and that—as in no instance is κατενήνοθε demanded on metrical grounds—it does not appear how it could be 'assumed for the sake of the metre.' It is joined with a plural κόμαι κατενήνοθεν

In Attic the prevailing form is -έομαι Xen. Plat. Orators: in the Poets it occurs very seldom, but in the pure form ἐπιμελούμεθα req. by the metre Eur. Phoen. 556 (Vulg. Pors. Herm. Kirchh.) which L. Dind. Nauck &c. doubt, and W. Dind. 5 ed. rejects, ἐπιμελοῦ Ar. Vesp. 154 (-έλου Dind.), both which are rejects, ἐπιμελοῦ Ar. Vesp. 154 (-ελου Dind.), both which are weak proofs, as their only strength is accent, imp. ἐπεμελεῖσθε Plut. 1117 (-ελεσθε Dind.); L. Dind. however in his last edition of Xen. has adopted -μέλομαι in many instances, and maintains that it ought to be adopted uniformly in Aristoph. also, Thuc. and Plato. It certainly is of more frequent occurrence than Lobeck in Buttmann seems to allow, unless he mean inf. -μέλεσθαι, which is very rare, but scarcely so rare as he seems to say, Her. 1, 98; Xen. Cyr. 4, 5, 46 (best Mss. Dind. Saupp.); Pl. Alc. (1) 121. 135; Polyb. 5, 47 (2 Mss. Bekk.); Euseb. Stob. 53, 16; Aristid. 1, 12 (Dind.); Themist. 1, 17 (Dind.) The fut. m. -λήσομαι is on unchallenged documentary evidence the earlier form, in fact -ληθήσομαι seems rather doubtful in classic At Xen. Mem. quoted, Dind. Saupp. and Breitb. edit, Greek. with Ms. E. fut. m. -λησόμενος, and Kühner approves: in every other instance Xen. has mid. Cyr. 5, 4, 22. An. 4, 3, 30, and συν-επιμελήσ- Mem. 2, 8, 3. The 2 nor. has given rise to much discussion, especially the introduction and retention of the aspirate. There seems to have been two forms, ἐσπόμην and ἐσπόμην, formed perhaps thus: ἔπομαι originally σέπομαι (Lat. sequor): 2 aor. ἐσεπόμην, ε elided ἐσπόμην, subj. σπώμαι; opt. σποίμην; σπέο; σπόσθαι; σπόμενος, like the act. έπω originally σέπω: 2 aor. έσεπον, έσπον; subj. σπῶ, σποίμι &c., so ἔχω, ἔχω (fut. ἔξω), originally σέχω: 2 aor. ἔσεχον, ἔσχον; subj. σχῶ, σχοῖμι &c. ἐσπόμην, again, seems to have arisen from reduplication, σέπομαι, aor. ἐσεπόμην redupl. σεσεπόμην, ε elided σεσπόμ-, then with the usual substitution of the spiritus asper for σ, έσπόμην, and retained in the moods like other reduplications, έσπωμαι, έσποίμην, έσπου, έσπέσθαι, έσπόμενος; compare τέρπω, 2 aor. m. έτάρπετο, redupl. τετάρπετο Il. 24, 513; subj. τεταρπώμεσθα 23, 10; τεταρπόμενος Od. 1, 310. See also κεύθω, πείθω, &c.

A trace of pres. act. (ἔσπω) ἔσπετε, perhaps=σέπω, σέπετε, σ transposed, but leaving its aspiration on the ε, occurs in a verse of Timon preserved in Diog. Laert. 9, 112; and perhaps Hom. H. 32, I, where Lobeck defends the old reading ἔσπετε against ἔσπετε. Pres. m. ἔσπομαι, if not late, is rare; for though Wolf adopted it from Eustath. Od. 4, 826, the old reading ἔρχεται is maintained by Bekk. Dind. La Roche, and ἔσποντ' in some editions of Pind. Ol. 13, 42, is an emendation—seemingly unnecessary—of Bothe for the Ms. reading ἔψονται defended by Bergk, Schneidewin, and Kayser; ἔσπεσθαι however I. 5 (6), 17 (Pauw, Momms. Christ, Bergk 2, 3 edit., ἔψονται Bergk's conjecture I edit., σπέσθαι Mss.) The comp. περιέπω has pass. περιέπομαι I am treated, handled, imp. περιέπώμην Her. 7, 211; Xen. Hell. 3, 1, 16: fut. m. περιέψομαι pass.? Her. 2, 115. 7, 149: but aor. p. unaugm. περιέφθην Her. 6, 15. In Hom. ἔπω, ἔπομαι with, and without augm., in Her. Bekk. now always augments, Gaisford usually, but ἔποντο 1, 80. 172. 9, 15.

Vb. ἐρυστός Soph. Aj. 730. Those forms which we have ranked as perf. and plp. may be, and indeed generally are, referred to the pres. and imp. contracted: as pres. ἔρῦται for ἐρύεται, ἔρυσθαι for ερύεσθαι: imp. ερυσο for ερύεσο, ερυτο for ερύετο &c. used sometimes as aor.; ἔρῦτο Hes. quoted, may on this view follow the analogy of verbs in μι, εδείκνϋτο &c. A rare if not the only instance of v in the act. is τόξον ἐρύων drawing, Hom. 196. Buttmann has examined with his usual ability the meanings and quantity of èpiw, elpiw Lexil. p. 303; but, after all, we are inclined to think that the quantity of v depends more on place in the verse than on shades of meaning. For the forms with ει, see εἰρύω.

Thesm. 504. Elmsley was fine sometimes, we think to fastidiousness. His only ground of exception is rareness in Attic. But if we may believe the Mss. Lysias sometimes indulged himself with a rarity. Is it not as easy and as safe to suppose that he used a poetic or Ionic word as that a transcriber foisted it into the text? And why should Aristophanes scruple to use, if it so pleased him, the imperfect, which Thucydides had used before him?: 1 aor. rare and late, ηλύθα (Hes. But fut. ὑπε-λεύσεται is perhaps the true reading (Mss. C D, Erm. 1, 353.) Vb. μετ-ελευστέος Luc. Fugit. 22, ὑπ-ελθετέυν Strab. 13, 3, 6 (Kram.)

Pres. ἔρχομαι is common in every class of writers, but for the moods ἔρχωμαι, ἐρχοίμην &c., and imp. ἢρχόμην the Attics usually employ τω, τοιμι, τοι, των, λέναι: imp. τα. More particularly, τρ-χωμαι rare, τρχεο, (-χου) -χευ often in Epic, we have not noticed in Attic; τρχοίμην rare in Attic, we have not seen or failed to note in Epic; έρχόμενος, έρχεσθαι often in Epic, occasionally in Attic: ἢλυθον and syncop. ἢλθον never drop the augment; the former confined to Indic. and almost always to the dactylic forms ἢλυθον, -es, -e; ἢλύθομεν however is the Mss. reading Hes. Th. 660 (Goettl.) not ἢλύθαμεν, which was first introduced into the text by Pasor, and adopted by some late editors. ἢνθον for ñλθον seems to have been but partially used by the Dorians: Pind. never has it, and Timocr. Rhod. has ἐλθεῖν 1, 4 (Ahr.), ñλθε Chilidonism. Puer. Rhod. 1. 3 pl. ἤλθοσαν for ἦλθον is a late form, often in Septuag.; Pseud.-Callisth. 2, 35: 2 perf. in pl. is occasionally syncopated, ἐλῆλυμεν, -λυτε for -ὐθαμεν -ὑθατε, Com. Fr. (Cratin.) 2, 153; Trag. Fr. (Achae.) 22. Perf. pass. διεληλύσθαι Xen. Cyr. 1, 4, 28 (old edit.) has been displaced by διηνύσθαι from Ms. Guelf.; another form however μετῆλθαι occurs in Peyron. Papyr. Aegypt. 1, p. 34. Fut. pass. ἐλευθησόμενα occurs late Paroem. Apostol. Cent. 18, 22.

For ηρχετο, ἀν-ήρχετο, ὑπεξ-ήρχετο Hippocr. (Lit.) quoted, or Epidem. 7, Sect. 35. 45. 59, Ermerins reads ηει, ἀνήει, ὑπεξήει, 'because,' says he, 'the former was not in use when this book was written.' We think this a mistake, for διήρχετο is in Pind. Ol. 9, 93, and has never, as far as we know, been called in question. In Hippocr. there is no variant for ηρχετο, ἀνήρχετο; for ὑπεξήρχετο, however, occurs ὑπεξέειν (Ms. C. for -ἡειν). But a question may arise whether this may not have been adopted by the Scribe merely because ἐξιέναι occurs two lines before. In Aristoph. Thesm. 504, Bekk. and Dind. retain περιήρχετ', Elms. suggested -ἡει or -ῆρρεν, Hamaker περιέτρεχ' approved by Bergk and adopted by Meineke; περιέρρει (περιφρέω) if suitable, seems fully as near the draft.

The simple form is Epic, and in act. goes not beyond the aor.: pass. εὖόμενοι Il. 9, 468. The comp. ἀφεύω is almost confined to Comedy, Ar. Eccl. 13. Pax 1144: aor. ἄφ-ευσα (Simon. Am. 24 Bergk); Ar. We have never met with it in prose, though Buttmann says 'in prose usually

We have seen no trace of augment excepting ηὐωχ- Ar. Lys. Vesp. quoted (Dind. 5 ed.) The aor. mid. seems to have escaped the notice of Grammarians and Lexicogr. We never met with it except Luc. quoted, who uses it in exactly the same sense as Her. uses the aor. pass. ἔθυσάν τε καὶ εὐωχήθησαν Her. 1, 31. ὅπως θύσωσι καὶ εὐωχήσωνται without v. r. Luc. Cron. 11. To square this with his own notions, Cobet suggests fut. θύσουσι καὶ εὐωχήσονται.

Fut. ζήσω seems to have been the Attic form, though mid. ζήσομαι is earlier than some suppose. In the Septuag. the mid. is almost the constant form, in the N. T. the act., we think, rather prevails.—The Epics, Ion. and Dor. use the collat. form. χώω and ζώω: see the words form. ζώω and ζόω; see the words.

Od. 13, 325 (Wolf, Heyne, Dind. Ameis.) In both places however

Bekk now (2 ed.) and La Roche write i κω in conformity with Il. 18, 406. Od. 15, 329. Kühner and Jelf seem to have foreseen and predicted this, for though i κω stands Il. 5, 478. Od. 13, 325, in all Mss. and, as far as we know, stood in all editions till 1858, they pronounced it several years previously post-Homeric. So too thought Choerob. and Eustath., but Buttmann held it to be a dialectic variety of ikw, and Homeric—Lobeck so far approves.

Tischendorf (Rev. 17, 8) reads fut. p. θαυμασθήσονται as mid. shall wonder, but retains aor. ἐθαύμασεν (13, 3) in preference to ἐθαυμάσθη, on the ground that the uncials which form their endings are easily confused. Hesychius however explains ayarbels by θαυμασθείς and εθάμβησεν by εθαυμάσθην (εθαύμασεν Schmidt), which, if correct, favours the reading ἐθαυμάσθη (Mss. A. C. Lach.

The aor. form ἰδρύνδην is not free from suspicion, for generally the best Mss. offer ἰδρύθην. -ύνθην is retained in Hom. by Wolf, Bekk. Dind. La Roche; in Ap. Rh. by Well. Merk.; in Theocr. by Mein. Kirchh. Paley &c.) which has displaced ἔστἄσαν at Il. 2, 525 also (Mss. Spitzn. Bekk. Dind.), and Od. 18, 307 &c. (Bekk. Dind.) This shortening seems to have some analogy to ἔπρεσε for -ησε (if correct) Hes. Th. 856, but it must be carefully distinguished from plp. ἔστἄσαν, see Il. 2, 777. 12, 55. Od. 7, 89; Hes. Sc. 191.

καθέζομαι suspicious, especially in early writers, and would substitute καθίζομαι. ἐκαθεζόμην he maintains to be, in Attic at all events, a pure aorist, not an imperfect. Instances in early authors, we grant, are rare; at the same time we think his remarks rather stringent. Od. 10, 378; Ar. in Com. Fr. 2, 1145; Lys. 13, 37; Hippocr. 8, 392 &c., to say nothing of Eur. quoted, are decided cases of pres., and, in point of form, derive support from the equally decided cases of imperfect, Xen. In the Tragedians κιχάνω always requires τ: and therefore late editors have substituted κιγχάνω, founding partly on Mss., partly on κιγχάνω in Hesych. and other Gramm., as in Soph. O. C. 1450 (Elms. Herm. Dind.) &c. κιχάνω still stands in some good editions of Aesch. Ch. 613 (622); but Franz found in the Med. Ms., the oldest and best, traces of an obliterated letter between ε and χ, which heightens the probability that κιγχάνει was the reading. Το this verb some have referred ἔκιξε Simias in Ovo, Anth. 15, 27, ἀπέκιξων Αr. Ach. 869, κίξατο Hesych. This verb is poetic, κιχείν Aristot. Abicht, Stein) perhaps rightly, at least more in accordance with the usage of Her. Nice scholars, Elmsley, Dindorf, Ellendt, &c. would banish kheiw with its derivatives and compounds from the Tragedians and Aristoph. at least, and read κλήω instead as the old Attic form. It would appear however to be certain in Aristoph., Xenophon, the Orators and later, less certain in Plato. Meineke, Cobet, W. Dind. 5 ed. always write κλήω in Aristoph., and L. Dind. would always in Attic, and the p. pass. without  $\sigma$ , κεκλειμένος, Attic -ημένος.

The quotations of fut. act. will show that Hemsterhuis and Porson were quite wrong in asserting that "the Attics use only the mid. fut. of this verb," and that Buttmann, Passow, and even Poppo are scarcely right in calling the mid. fut. 'usitatior' (Xen. Cyr. 7, 5, 83). The p. pass. in part. is frequent in the best prose. Besides Antiph. &c. quoted, see Xen. Hell. 5, 3, 27; Dem. 20, 139. 24, 116; Luc. Hermot. 86; κεκόλασται Plut. Mor. 585; κεκολάσθαι Aristot. Eth. N. 3, 15, 6; -ασμένος Eth. Eud. 3, 2, 1: plp. ἐκεκόλαστο Plut. Lycurg. 11. The pres. and aor. mid. are rather rare: the fut. act. is confined to prose, and never elided; the fut. mid. is in prose and Comedy, and, in the latter, elided or not, seemingly as suited or pleased the writer—a wholesome lesson this to rigid uniformists.

Ag. 1340, Dind. reads with the Mss. fut. ἐπικρανεῖ with long penult.; Herm. holds this lengthening inadmissible, and alters the fut. to pres. ἐπικραίνει. From this Dind. (5 ed.) dissents, and retains fut. -ανεῖ with a slight misgiving, "si scripsit Aeschylus, quod incertum est, ultimam syllabam produxit, quod perraro fit in hoc verborum genere." The same anomaly occurs in the fut. of αῖρω, and φαίνω, which see. We observe Burgess, Bergk, Mein. and now Dind. read φαίνω Ar. Eq. 300, for φανῶ (Vulg. Bekk.) and we feel inclined to agree, not only because the lengthening of a liquid fut. seems a violent anomaly, and because Ar. has ἀποφανῶ in line 1334, by using ἀποδείξω in its stead—unless, to be sure, the latter is to be taken as a threat of demonstration.

The state of the s

(459) has been altered from Mss. to κρέμασθαι (Dind.); so Com. Fr. 3, 41 (Mein.) In Hippocr. however still stand κρεμασθαι I, 592 (Lit.). 2, 42 (Kühn, 2, 288 Lit.), προσ- 1, 463 (Kühn.) We doubt these, both because in the second and third citations one Ms. has κρέμασθαι, and in the fourth occurs ἐκκρεμάμενον not -όμενον, and ἐκκρεμανῦντα seemingly a vicious form for -ννῦντα, I, 464, tending to favour the belief that -ασθαι is a wrong accentuation, and that the correct form in Hippocr. is the classic κρεμάννημι, κρέμαμαι, see 2, 152. The form κατακκραμμένον Hippocr. 3, 100 (Vulg.) called by some perf. pass. for -κεκρέμασμαι, as κεκέρασμαι, κέκραμαι, has been altered rightly by Littré (3, 490) to pres. κατα-κρεμάμενον, from eight Mss.

Soph.) seems to have overlooked Fr. 700, when he wrote "altera perfecti forma εκτημαι—apud Soph. jam propter hiatum non admittitur:" Hiatus in every case but this bars admission. The colloquial style of Plato admitted perhaps a little more freedom in dropping the k.

For the pass. forms they used θνήσκω, in prose more frequently ἀπο-: ἔθνησκον, and ἀπ-: fut. θανοῦμαι, in prose always ἀπο-: aor. ἔθανον, in prose always ἀπ-: p. τέθνηκα, and syncop. τέθνατον, -ἄμεν, -νᾶσι &c. &c. in Poet. and prose, and rarely compd. Our lexicons say "In prose the compds.  $d\pi$ 0-, κατακτένω are more common." This is true of  $d\pi$ 0-; in regard to κατα- it is a capital mistake. Of classic Attic prose writers Xen. alone uses it, and even there, bating perhaps two or three cases, Mss. and editors divide on it and κατα-καίνω. The comp. ἀποκτείνω has in Attic poetry and prose, fut. -ενῶ: 1 aor. -εινα: p. -έκτονα: but 2 aor. ἀπ-έκτανο, ἀπ-έκταν, and mid. ἀπ-έκτανο. pass. are Epic only— ἀπέκτανε, however, Eur. Rhes. 978. Dindorf in Lucian, on the ground that "Veteres κυλίνδειν, et καλινδεῖν, non κυλινδεῖν dixerunt, quod librarii saepissime intulerunt ex more recentiorum." Of course he will require to alter Aristoph. Av. 501. 502, accordingly—and this he has now done in 5 ed. It is pretty clear that Homer, Pindar, and the Tragedians used the baryton κυλίνδω, but whether this, and the existence of the pure καλινδέω, prevented Aristoph. Xen. and Plato from using also the form κυλινδέω is just the question. See the collat. ἀλινδέω, καλινδέω.

This verb seems to occur neither in Comedy nor classic Attic prose, with the doubtful exception of Pl. Alcib. (2) 141. κύρω is the usual Epic form, but with κυρήσας in Hes. and κυρήσαι Hom. Epigr. quoted, we hesitate to follow Hermann in displacing εκυρήσαμεν Mosch. 4, 68 (Mss. Vulg. Ahr.) for επεκύρσαμεν, on the ground that the former "non est epicorum" (Herm. B. et Mosch.) Meineke and Ziegler, we observe, adopt Hermann's emendation, and support it with ἐκύρσαμεν from Ms. C. We still demur.

The genuineness of Dem. 21, 82 is doubtful, but λελόγχατε Dio. Hal. Ant. 4, 83, and plp. ελελόγχει (Luc.) Amor. 18, λελόγχ-Theocr. 4, 40. The 3 pl. p. is short in penult λελόγχασιν Od. 11, 304 (Mss. Bekk. Dind. La R. &c.). Barnes preserved the ā by eliding ι, λελόγχᾶσι αάρτεd by Wolf, but Eusth. found -ἄσιν in all the Mss. It is short in Emped. also, λελόγχᾶσι πάντα 313 (Stein), where Barnes' emend. is inadmissible; so πεφύκᾶσι Od. 7, 114 (Herodn. Bekk. Ameis, La R.). The ει instead of the redupl. (εῖληχ-, for λέληχ-) seems a liquidation or dainty utterance of the initial λ. λέληγ- liquidated ἐέληγ- εῖληγ-.

fedupl. (είληχ-, for λέληχ-) seems a inquiation of dainty literance of the initial λ, λέληχ- liquidated είληχ- είληχ-.

Rh., nor Theocr. except λαζύμεναι 18, 46 (Br. Mein. Ahr. Ziegl. 2 ed.). λάζυμαι again, is the prevailing Attic form: Eur. has it six or eight times, λάζομαι scarcely once, except in imper. duτιλάζου (never λάζυσο) Or. 452, compare λάζευ Plut. Mor. (Poet. incert.) 456, λάζουσθ Eur. Rhes. 877 (Vulg.) is now λάζυσθ (Mss. B. C.

&c. Dind. Kirchh. &c.), ἀντιλάζομαι Ι. Α. 1227 (Mss. Matth. Kirchh. 1 ed.), -υμαι (Markl. Herm. Dind. Monk, Nauck, Kirchh. 2 ed.), ἀντ-ελάζετ' Med. 1216 (Vulg.), -ελάζυτ' (Ms. C. Schol. Pors. Elms. Dind. Kirchh. &c.), and in Aristoph. λάζυσθε has better Mss. and editorial authority than λάζοισθε, Lys. 209 (Ms. R. Aug. Br. Bekk. Dind. Mein. Bergk). On this point Porson says "the Attics use λάζομαι but prefer λάζομαι" Eur. Med. 1213 (suae edit.) Elmsley more specifically, "in Attic this form (λάζομαι) seems to occur in the imper. only." This is true and instructive. The Attics were influenced in their verbal forms by use and wont, caprice, &c. and sometimes wisely yielded to necessity just like peoples of other tongues. Hippocr. has both forms, see passages quoted. λάζου, Theocr. 15, 21. 8, 84. λάζευ and λάζεο, λασδ- (Vulg.) for λάζου, Dan. 57, ἐπ-είλ- Soph. Ant. 732. For ἀνα-λελάμφθαι Hippocr. Offic. Med. 7 (Vulg.), Littré gives from ten Mss. and the Gloss. of Erot. -λελάφθαι 3, 308 (Lit.) Nevertheless, we think Buttm. may be right in maintaining -λελάμφθαι to be the genuine Ionic form, comparing λαμπτός. He might perhaps have strengthened his analogy by κεκάμφθαι 4, 280, ξυγ- 4, 322, with, in one case, the variant -άφθαι. In Xen. An. 7, 2, 14, the Mss. vary between fut. mid. συλλήψεται in pass. sense, and fut. pass. συλληφθήσεται. But though the former is offered by several of the best Mss., recommended by Larcher and Valckenaer, and received into the Text by Kühner (1852), the pass. use of this fut. mid. simple or compd. is against the uniform usage not only of Xen. but, we think, of all other writers. Of aor. mid. έλαμψάμην we have seen no sure instance. Matthiae quotes Her. 7, 157, but there occurs only fut. παραλαμψομένους: λάμψηται 8, 10 (Vulg.) is a wrong reading for fut. -ψεται (Mss. F. a. Schaef. Gaisf. Bekk. Stein), so ἀπολάμψαιτο 9, 38 (Mss. S. V.) for fut. -ψοιτο (Gaisf. Bekk. &c.), κατα- λαμψάμενον 6, 39 (Ms. S.) for -ψόμενον (Gaisf. Bekk. &c.), and λάμψασθαι 9, 108 (Ms. F.) for -ψεσθαι (Gaisf. Bekk. &c.), and παραλήψηται (for Vulg. παραλλάξεται -ηται) Hippocr. 6, 326 (Lit.) which depends, for at least its extraneous support, on Littre's "Je peneru'il faut lire." ληψώμεθα, however, Pseudo-Callisth. 1, 38 (Müller, Meusel.). Rh. quoted, is held by some a syncop. imp. aoristically used. L. Dindorf seems decided on expelling 1 aor. ἔλειψα from Polyb. Dio Cass. &c. We think his remarks too stringent, and inapplicable at least to the case in Strabo, see above. is another case which we think they do not meet. Supposing that theya had fallen rather into conversational use, it would be the more ready to come occasionally in the way, step in with unobtrusive familiarity, and find acceptance along with, perhaps before, its genteeler neighbour.

In Attic, and also in Her. the pres. and imp. generally drop ε and ο in their terminations, as ελου, ελοῦμεν, λοῦμαι, λοῦται, λοῦσθαι for ελουε, ελούμεν &c. unless they should be referred to λόω. On these forms Mss. and editors differ. Lud. Dind. and Cobet in Xen., and W. Dind. in Her. and Luc., edit now invariably the short forms ελου, λοῦται, λούμεθα, λοῦσθαι, λούμενος, for ελουε, λούεται, λούμεθα, λούσθαι, λούσμενος. How far this is right, we think rather a nice question. From analogy we should think it likely that there would be a severe and a less severe Atticism, a glib and a grave. To say that λούμενος &c. is in all cases right, and λουόμενος &c. wrong, because in a particular instance one or even all the Mss. preserve it, is vicious reasoning. It assumes undeviating uniformity, and keeps out of view that a nicer form may in some cases be owing entirely to a nicer copyist. See λόω.

This verb in the simple form occurs first in Hes. and Theogn. but ἐπι-μέμφομαι is in both Il. 1, 93. 2, 225, and Od. 16, 97. Pind. has aor. pass. only, Her. mid. and pass. The Attics use mid. except Eur. and Thuc. who have both; the latter however aor. pass. once only. In late authors the aor. pass. seems to be used passively, but act. Anton. Lib. Transf. 16. Buttm. narrows rather unduly the usage of aor. pass. by confining it to the "Ionics and Tragedians." Aor. part. act. μέμψας occurs in Aesop 132 (Tauchn.), and μεμφόμενος pass. in Diog. Laert. 6, 47.

This verb is Poetic, chiefly Epic. Attic poets use pres. only, and rarely. The subj. form μενοινήμοι seems anomalous. But if Homer occasionally contracts αε into η, συλαέτην, -ήτην Il. 13, 202 &c. and perhaps ὅρηαι from -άεαι, Od. 14, 343, the way seems smoothed for contracting, as the Dorian did, άμ into η, μενοινήσαι -νέσει extended -νέσει as in press μενοινήσαι -νέσει extended -νέσει as in press μενοινήσαι -νέσει extended -νέσει as in press μενοινήσαι -νέσει εχευανήσαι -νέσει εχευανήσει -νέ μενοινάησι, -νησι, extended -νήησι, as in pres. μενοινάω, -νω, -νωω. It would familiarise the monster a trifle to read μενοινάησι: a so circumstanced is long in the indic. μενοινάα Il. 19, 164. Reflex assimilation may have something to do with it. Perhaps some would refer it to a form in -εω.

In Mss. and edit. of Her. the 3 pl. imp. varies in form: ἐμηχανῶντο 6, 133, -έωντο 7, 172 (Gaisf. Bekk.) - έοντο 8, γ (Dind. Stein, Abicht always, and here Gaisf. Bekk.), but ἐμηχανέστο 5, 63, Lhardy with Matth. Krüg. and Dind. maintains to be a vicious form unauthorised by example or analogy, and confidently suggests έμηχανώντο, Matth.

έμηχανώατο or plp. έμεμηχανέατο, Dind. reads -έοντο, for though -έατο is often for -οντο, and plp. -ηντο, it is never for -άοντο, -έοντο of contract verbs. Bredow defends έμηχανέατο by the analogy of ωρμέστο 1, 83. 158 &c. which he takes, of course, for imp. ώρμέοντο, Lhardy, Matth. &c. for plp. δρμηντο.

Pers. 578. (i.) μάνθην Epic 3 pl. 1 aor. pass. for μίανθεν shortened form of εμιάνθησαν, Il. 4, 146, others for dual μανθήτερη. Of peither perhaps have we sure examples for dual μιανθήτην. Of neither perhaps have we sure examples, for the metre requires eyvor not -w Pind. P. 4, 120 (Bergk &c.) and permits it (9, 79. I. 2, 23; Hym. Cer. 111) and is so edited by Schneidewin and Ahrens. But though such syncopated 3 plurals shorten the last syllable, as  $\tilde{\epsilon}\sigma\tau\tilde{a}\nu$  for  $-\eta\sigma\alpha\nu$ ,  $\tau i\theta\epsilon\nu$  for -θησαν &c. yet there appears some analogy for retaining the long vowel, in the Doric ην for ησαν, Ar. Lys. 1260; Epich. 30. 31, ενην 52 (Ahr.) Buttmann says it is from an aor. whose 3 sing. is έμίαντο, 3 dual έμιάν-σθην, then μιάνθην. Have we example or analogy of this? Ahrens thinks that the proper analogical form μίανθεν may be admitted on the ground that a short syllable may stand for a long before the Bucolic caesura. Some of the late Attic prose writers use the Ionic form of aor. έμίηνα Plut. Mor. 725; App. Civ. 2, 104, but καταμιάνητε Lyb. 85

It would thus appear to be rather a mistake to confine the iter. form entirely to the "sing. and 3 pl., well as to assert that "in the latest editions of Homer and Herodotus έμισγέσκοντο and έλάβεσκον are the only iter. forms that retain the augment" (Rost's Gr. Gram. p. 322. 2 ed. 1859). The form μίσγω alone occurs in Hom. Hes. Theognis, Her. Theocr. Ap. Rh., once in Trag. Soph., not in Comedy, freq. in Thuc. occas. in Xen. and Plato, and not seldom in less classic writers, Aristot. Theophr. Luc. Dio. Hal. Diod. Sic. &c. μίγνυμ, έμίγνυν were preferred especially by the earlier Attics to -ύω, -νον. The latter, except of course subj. and opt. is never in the Traged. nor Thuc., nor now, we think, in Plato, and only once in Aristoph. but frequent along with -vµ in the Mss. and edit. of Xen. Lud. Dind. however has in his last edit. of Xen. displaced  $-i\omega$ , except  $-i\omega\nu$  Mem. 3, 14, 5, and adopted  $-\nu\mu$ . We demur to this, because forms in  $-i\omega$  had been kything in the Old Comedy, Com. Fr. (Pher.) 2, 324, and were coming more into use with writers of the Middle, Aristophanes, Amphis &c. contemporaries of Xen., and went on increasing in classic prose and the Later Comedy. We therefore think that in Xenophon's time both forms were in use, and that though -vu was the more freq., it may be the more approved form, yet that an author felt at perfect liberty to use -ύω, whether to meet a metrical exigency, to please a fancy, or simply to vary his diction. δμεύων is demanded by the metre Alex. Com. Fr. 3. 437, δμεύωντος Antiph. 3, 149, δμεύωντος Amphis 3, 319, δμεύωντος Alex. 3, 458, as well as συμπαραμιγεύων Ar. Plut. 719, occurring along with the rival form ὑποιμέψωντος 725.

I. 8, 26. μεμνόμενος Archil. 9, 2 (Bergk) is a mere conjecture of Scaliger, adopted however by Grotius and Gaisf. for μεμφόμενος (Vulg.) which Bergk in his 2 and 3 ed. retains, but suggests μελπόμενος, or μεμβλόμ-. Pres. μιμνήσκω and fut. μνήσω in simple are Epic. Hom. and the Traged. use both aor. pass. and mid., the Comedians and prose writers seem never to use the mid. aor. simple or comp. The only exception we have met is μνήσασθαι Her. 7, 39; (Luc.) D. Syr. quoted. ἀπομιμνήσκομαι has no act. form, and fut. mid. ἀπομνήσεσθαι only Thuc. 1, 137: aor. ἀπεμνήσαντο Il. 24, 428; Hes. Th. 503; imper. ἀπόμνησαι Eur. Alc. 299: (p. -μέμνημαι: aor. -εμνήσθην we have not seen.)

(p. -μέμνημαι: aor. -εμνήσθην we have not seen.)

Krüger thinks that Thuc. (1, 137) probably wrote ἀπομεμνήσεσθαι, on the ground that the Attics do not use the fut. of the mid form. No doubt they usually employ μνησθήσομαι and μεμνήσομαι, but the approved reading Eur. I. Aul. 667 is μνήσει fut. mid. not μνήση subj. aor. And though the simple μνήσομαι is poetic, that is no bar to a comp. being used in prose: a common occurrence. Besides, μνήσομαι is the prevailing fut. form in Her. ἐπι-μνήσ- 1, 5. 177. 2, 101 (ἀνα- Hippocr. 2, 650. 5, 98, ἐπι- App. Procem. 13; (Luc.) D. Syr. 36), and this we think strengthens the probability that it may have been used in the old Attic prose of Thuc. Nor is its uniqueness decisive against it, for Thuc. alone of Attic prose authors uses the aor. pass. ἐμέμφθην (common in Ion. and Eur.), and only once, μεμφθή 4, 85, though he has aor. mid. ἐμεμψάμην five or six times. Luc. pro Imag. 9. Char. 1, has 3 fut. in part. μεμνησόμενος, which classic writers, we think, avoided, see πολεμέω.

Porson suggested ταῦτα δύρομαι, on the ground that "the third and fourth foot of a (tragic) senathe ground that "the third and fourth foot of a (tragic) senarius never form one word." Paley retains the common reading ταὐτ' ἀδύρ-, and adds "Porson is not followed by the more recent critics." But he is followed by Hartung, Nauck in his 1, 2, and 3, and by Kirchhoff in his 2 edit. Paley then refers us to a note on Bacch. 1123, where he adduces five or six "similar instances of want of caesura," not one of which meets Porson's objection—"the third and fourth foot in one word." We don't say Porson is right, we say he is not refuted. "The fourth and fifth foot formed by one word" is assuredly no rarity in Eur.

The forms οἰδαίν, οἰδαίνω seem to be late. Buttmann's assertion that the "formation in -ἡσω is the only one for all four forms" would appear to be not quite correct. Kühner and Jelf quote from Eur. Hipp. 1210, ἀνοίδησαν as an instance, we presume, of οι unaugm. in Attic. The only admissible reading there however is neut. part. ἀνοδῆσαν, which alters the case.

Lys. 81. 156. 998. 1256 (best Mss. Dind. Enger, Bergk), οίω (Br. &c.) is commonly identified with this verb. It is, perhaps, an exclamation rather peculiar to the Laconians, something like our ho yo! It occurs also in a Fr. of Coraliscus. In Hom. the aor. mid. is now never written with  $\sigma\sigma$ ,  $\delta i\sigma\sigma$ -; in Ap. Rh. Mss. and edit. differ, but Wellau. and Merkel uniformly - $\iota\sigma\sigma$ - with Mss. Laur. Guelf.; but in Q. Sm. now -wa- (Koechly); so The Attics usually contracted pres. oiopas in Arat. (Bekk). into οἶμαι, and in prose, perhaps always imp. φόμην into φμην but both in 1 sing. only. Hom. never uses the syncop. οἶμαι, and rarely the contr. οἷομαι Od. 10, 193; οἷοιτο 17, 580. 22, 12, which two last Doederl. would alter to οἷοιτο, unaware of the first which we think their support; (οἰόμενος Callim. Epigr. 7, 2.) From this it appears that Buttmann's assertion that "the Epics always separate the diphthong in the mid. δίομαι" is wrong, and that our Lexicogr. are not quite right in confining the contr. form to the opt. oioiro.

Gram. 113, 6. Rost there says that "the 1 aor. pass. of Dep. mid. verbs is always pass." This is too strong: ἄγαμαι, ἀπολογέσμαι, ἀρνέσμαι &c. have in classic Auth. both aor. mid. and pass. as mid., and μέμφομαι has in Thuc. himself, ἐμεμ-ψάμην 3, 61. 2, 64, and in same sense ἐμέμφθην 4, 85.

T. 743, ὅμνῦ before a vowel, Orac. Her. 6, 86. Fut. act. ὁμόσω is from ὁμόω, but mid. ὁμοῦμαι, -εῖ, -εῖται seems to be from obs. ὅμω, as νεμοῦμαι, -εῖ, -εῖται from νέμω, not contr. from ὀμόσομαι. ὁμώμεθα quoted is not subj. but Dor. fut., -ιόμεθα (Elms.), both are legitimate. ὀμόσω fut. act. is late, and never, we think, contr. ὀμῶ, -εῖς, -εῖ; ὀμόσσει was introduced unnecessarily for ὀμόσση Ps. Phocyl. 11, 17 (Bergk), and ἀπ-ομούντων Lys. 16, 6 (Ald. Reisk.) has been displaced by ἀποδημούντων (Mss. Bekk. B. S. Scheib.) The tragedians and Aristophanes seem always to have used the form in -νμ, not -ὑω, but in the Com. Fr. and in Ion. and Attic prose both forms occur, -ὑμα prevailing. See Her. 2, 118. 4, 68. 1, 212. 5, 106, with 4, 172. 5, 7. Hom. always, we think, augments imp. ὧμν-, but aor. ὧμ-, or ὄμ- as it suits him.

Eur. Ándr. 1225 (chor.) has the Ion. 2 sing. fut. όψεα, which Herm. Dind. and Paley alter to όψει, see above. A unique instance of 1 aor. occurs in opt. ἐσορήσαις Orph. Fr. 2, 16. Homer uses fut. ἐπόψομαι and ἐπιόψ-, the former in the sense simply to look at, the latter with the accessory notion of looking at for selection, looking out, in which sense Plato Com. uses the aor. ἐπώψατο Com. Fr. 2, 623. όψαυτο Soph. O. R. 1271, is Hermann's emendation for όψουτο (Mss. Dind. Bergk), on the ground of the sense requiring it, and is approved by Lobeck, Wunder &c.; subj. ὀψώμεθα occurs Menand. Rhet. 68 (ὀψόμ-Spengel), -ησθε N. T. Luc. 13, 28 (ὄψεσθε Tisch.), ἐπ-όψωνται Pl. Hippoct. 6, 146. 7, 178 (Lit.). 2, 320 (Erm.): imp. ωρεον, pl. -έομεν Her. 2, 131 (Bekk. Dind. Gaisf.) but often in Mss. and edit. ωρων 4, 3 (Bekk. Stein), δρεον 2, 106 (Bekk. Gaisf. ωρων Stein), ωρωμεν, έν- 1, 120 (Lhardy, Bekk. Stein), έωρωμεν (Mss.), δρέομεν 2, 148 (Bekk. ωρωμεν Stein), all which Bredow, Dind. Abicht &c. hold corrupt, and alter to ωρεον, ωρέομεν according to rule (Pref. to Her. Didot.), 3 sing. ωρα 1, 11. 3, 72, 2 pl. ωρατε

Lhardy, however, who has examined the subject with an acuteness and care that reminds us of P. Elmsley, is inclined to reduce most of those so-called Ionic forms much nearer the common, thus: ὅρων for ὥρεον, έωρ-; ὁρ- and ὧρῶμεν, for ὡρέομεν, ὁρέ-; subj. ὁρῶσι for -έωσι; part. ὁρῶν for ὁρέων, ὁρῶσα for -έουσα, but ὁρέωντα -έωντες for -έοντα, -έοντες (Bekk. Dind.) Uniformity is desirable, but we hold it hasardous to apply a very stringent law in the case. Dindorf says that iopāka, iopākew is the correct Attic form of perf. and plp. in poetry and prose. In Comedy, no doubt, this form is sometimes required, perhaps always admissible. But we doubt if this be a safe ground for concluding that it must therefore be the only genuine form in prose. We can see no sound reason, except exigency of metre—and this affects not prose-for exempting the perf. act. from double augment, and at the same time holding liable the imp. and the perf. pass. It is a considerable mistake to confine the middle voice to Epic. It is used by Soph. Eur. quoted, Cratin. Com. Fr. 2, 94, and by Attic prose writers in comp. προ- quoted, υφ- Xen. Mem. 2, 7, 12; Isae. 2, 7; Dem. 18, 43; Luc. Gall. 3, περι- Thuc. 2, 43. 6, 93, even the simple δράται seems mid. Ael. V. H. 3, 1; δράσθαι H. A. 10, 17; certainly δρώμενοι Polyaen. 4, 7, 6: imp. έωρᾶτο Polyaen. 8, 16, quoted, but έωρῶντο Plut. Brut. 43, has been altered to έώρων (Mss. Sint. Bekk.)

Pass. ὀτοτύζεται

Aesch. Ch. 327.
'Orpow To rouse, urge on, Poet. and late prose, Il. 5, 482; Pind. Ol. 3, 38; Aesch. Sept. 726; Soph. El. 28; subj. -ύνωμεν Od. 24, 405, Epic - ἐνομεν Ι, 85; inf. ἀτρύνειν Aretae. Morb. Ac. 2, 115 (ed. Oxon.), Epic ἀτρυνέμεν ΙΙ. 4, 286: imp. ἄτρῦνον ΙΙ. 5, 520; Hes. Th. 883; Pind. P. 4, 40; Soph. Aj. 60, ὅτρ- ΙΙ. 16, 495, iter. ἀτρύνεσκον ΙΙ. 24, 24; Ap. Rh. 3, 653: fut. ἀτρῦνέω Ερic (for ἀτρυνῶ) ΙΙ. 10, 55. Od. 2, 253. 15, 3: aor. ἄτρῦνα Od. 17, 430 (ὅτρ- Aristarch. La R.); subj. - ὑνω ΙΙ. 15, 402, -ὑνησι Od. 14, 374; ὀτρύνοιμι Ap. Rh. 1, 701, -ειε Od. 15, 306; Ap. Rh. 1, 382; ὅτρῦνον Il. 19, 69; Pind. Ol. 6, 87; inf. ὀτρῦνοι Il. 8, 219: pass. ὀτρυνόμενος Aristot. Mund. 6, 24: aor. ὀτρύνθη Pseud.-Callisth. 3, 3. Mid. ὀτρῦνομαι urge oneself, haste, Od. 10, 425; Callisth. 3, 3. Mid. στρύνομαι urge oneself, haste, Od. 10, 425; -υνώμεθα Il. 14, 369: imp. ωτρύνοντο Od. 17, 183, in which sense the act. ωτρυνον is once used, Il. 7, 420 (Vulg. Wolf, Spitzn.) where however Aristarch. read ωτρύνοντο, which Heyne, bekk. Dind. La Roche adopt: aor. ἀτρύνατο Androm. Sen. 47; trans. urge ὀτρυνώμεθα, ἐπ- Od. 8, 31. This verb seems very much confined to Epic, Pind. and the Traged.: the mid. is Epic. έποτρύνω is in prose, Thuc. 7, 25, -ώτρυνον 6, 69; -οτρύνας Her. 7, 170. ὀτρυνέουσα with signif. of pres. Od. 23, 264 (Vulg.) was read ὀτρύνουσα by Eustath. and this is now the approved reading (Wolf, Bekk. Dind. La R. Ameis.) There thus seems no ground, at most slight, for a pres. δτρυνέω.

Thuc. and Pl. quoted; Antiph. 5, 13; Dem. 23, 143. 24, 50. 29, 34. 31, 12, where now Bekk. &c. always ὀφλείν, ὀφλών. But ὄφλω pres. seems certain later, ὅφλουσι Dio Chrys. 31, 642 (L. Dind. Emper.); but for ὄφλων App. B. C. 2, 8, ὀφείλων (Bekk.); and for ἄφλον 5, 77 (Dind.), ἄφειλον (Bekk.); ἄφλεε for ἄφλε in some edit. of Her. 8, 26, seems to be a spurious form. The rarity of aor. ἄφλησα has caused it to be doubted (Lys. 13, 65). Sauppe suggests ἄφλον, Scheibe thinks the passage spurious.

The fut. form πήσομαι scarcely occurs now except as a v.r. Her. 9, 37; Ar. Nub. 1122; Xen. Cyr. 7, 3, 10; Polyb. 2, 4, 4 &c. probably by an error of the copyist, for the best Mss. generally offer πείσομαι. Heliod. however has πήσομαι 8, 15. 10, 16 (Cor. Bekk.) The aor. (ἔπησα), part. πήσαs is the reading of the Mss. and Vict. Aesch. Ag. 1624, and Scholefield adopts it. But scholars generally have not been satisfied either with the form or the meaning which it yields. Butler conjectured πταίσαs, and Pors. Blomf. Dind. Weil approved of it; but παίσαs, the reading of the Schol. Pind. P. 2, 95, is nearer the draft of the Ms. reading, furnishes an excellent sense, and is approved by Klausen, Franz, and Hermann; Dind. however retains πταίσαs (5 edit.) πέποσθε 2 pl. 2 perf. for πεπόνθατε Il. 3, 99. Theogn. 506, has given way to the pass. form πειρηθώ the reading in most Mss.; and πειρηθείης not πειραθ- is the reading of the best Ms. at 126. In Attic the aor. mid. is confined to Thuc. and Plato. In Thuc. it is the prevailing form, occurring six times, and aor. pass. thrice: Plato again, has aor. mid. once only, the aor. pass. eleven times. The compounds, except ἀπο- Thuc. 6, 90. 4, 135 &c. and perhaps κατα- Lys. 30, 34, are, in classic authors, not used in the act. and have, we think, always the aor. of the pass. form, ἀπο-πειρηθή Her. 2, 73, δι-επειράθην Antiph. 5, 33, ἐξ-επειράθ- Eur. No doubt πέλαγος λίγαῖον περῶ (from πείρω) is a legitimate expression, but Epic, and besides unnecessary here. This verb in simple is Epic, Lyric, and late prose.

mis verb in sample is Epic, Lyric, and face prose. Πέκω, see πείκω.

Bekker adopts from Reiske ἐποιοῦντο, L. Dind. ἐπήγοντο for which we see not the necessity. πέμψομαι Eur. Or. 111, is very suspicious. Not only have several Mss. the act. πέμψομεν, but even the whole verse seems useless where it stands. Matthiae suspected, Hermann, Dindorf, Nauck &c. rejected it. The aor. mid. Soph. O. R. 556, is not, as some maintain, used as act. Passow has limited far too much the passive voice of this verb. "In the passive," says he, "Pindar and Herodotus have aor. I part. πεμφθείς, and Photius the part. perf. πεπεμμένος. The other tenses are generally supplied by ἀποστέλλω." And other Lexicogr. have prolonged the strain. The aor., so far from being confined to part. and to Pindar and Herodotus, is in frequent use in other parts, and in several of the best Attic writers: ἐπέμφθην Soph. O. C. 430; Eur. Hec. 772; Thuc. 5, 54. 6, 47. 7, 11; Xen. Hell. 1, 3, 13; Dem. 18, 244. 19, 5. (49, 31. 57); πεμφθῶσι Thuc. 4, 46; πεμφθείην Xen. Vb. πιεστέον Hippocr. 3, 500 (Lit.) (1) The form πιεζέω, imp. πιέζευν occurs Od. 12, 196 in some editions, in others at 174 also, but Bekker, Dind. Ameis, La Roche read πίεζον at both places. Nor is it certain in Her.; for instead of πιεζεύμενος retained by Bekker, Gaisf. Stein 3, 146. 6, 108. 8, 142, Dind. has restored πιεζόμενος from some of the best Mss.; nor in Aristot. πιεζούμενος Prob. 16, 8, 10 (Mss. Bekk.), -ζόμενος (other Mss.); nor Polyb. πιεζόμενα 3, 74 (Bekk. Dind. Hultsch), ἐπιεζοῦντο 11, 33 (Bekk. Hultsch, -ζοντο Dind.) In Plut. it seems occasionally better supported, πιεζούντος, -ούμενος Alcib. 2. Thes. 1 &c. (Bekk. Sint.), and imp. ἐπιέζευν Theocr. 25, 268 (Mein. Fritz.) but -εζον (Ahr. Ziegl.) Hippocr. also has πιεζέονσι 3, 115 (Kühn) but -έζουσι (Mss. Lit. 3, 524), πιεζεῦντα 3, 64 (Kühn); so Littré 3, 334. 450, but πιέζει ibid. (Kühn, Lit.) It would thus appear to be doubtful whether this form is correctly called Epic and Ionic.

Nor is it enough that "Aristophanes has used it;" for even in sober trimeters he frequently uses words and forms of words never employed by Attic prose writers: αλύει, for instance, Vesp. 111, απύω Eq. 1023, βδέω Plut. 693, βρύκω Av. 26, ελινύω Thesm. 598, έρδω Vesp. 1431, έρπω Lys. 129, θείνω Ach. 564 do not, we think, occur in prose, nor the forms πρίασο Ar. Dind. &c. retain ην and of course subj. -ησι: see πίπτησι Com. Fr. (Plato) 2, 665. The marvel is lessened by neither being in trimeter. The aor. ἔπρεσε Hes. Th. 856, points seemingly to πρέω, so ἔπρεε (some Mss.) which Herm. approves. Goettling says "ἔπρεσε for ἔπρησε in iis Aeolicae dialecti exemplis habendum esse videtur, in quibus η breve est, ut τυπτόμενη." 840, says the 1 aor. was not used; and in reference to classic writers he is perhaps right. It occurs however in Orph. èν δ' ἔπεσαν Arg. 523, unless a slip for ἔπεσαν, and often in writers of the Alexandrine and Byzantine periods, ἔπεσαν V. T. Jud. 12, 6. 2 Reg. 11, 17. N. T. Rev. 1, 17; Phoebam. Rhet. p. 505, ἀντ-Polyb. 3, 19 (Mss. Vulg. Bekk. Hultsch, -εσαν V. T. Dind.), ἀν-Apocr. Tob. 2, 1 &c. often doubtful κατ-παρ-επέσαμεν Ach. Tat. 3, 17. 19 (Vulg. -ομεν Mss. V M F. Jacobs); Malalas &c. &c. in which occur also such forms as ἔφυγαν, εῦραν, εῖλατο, ἢλθαν, εφάγαμεν &c. In some Mss. and editions of classic authors a trace of enega now and then occurs, but so seldom as to induce scholars even on that ground to reject it for the usual form čπεσον. For instance, εν-επέσαμεν Aeschin. 2, 176 (some Mss.) has been altered from other Mss. to -έσομεν (Bekk. B. Saupp.); πέσειε Eur. Alc. 463, to πέσοι (Mss.), and προσ-έπεσα Tr. 292 (Mss. AB) to προσ-έπεσον Mss. Seidl. Dind. Kirchh. &c. In the latter case the transcriber, though intending -ov, might give it the appearance of -a merely by drawing the v too near the o. Buttmann however defends the 1 aor. as a genuine form, and compares it with exerca, exercor. Usage, we think, is against this: for Euripides has κατ-έπεσες Cycl. 671, where -έπεσας might have stood, ἐπ-έπεσου Andr. 1042, not -έπεσαν, πέσοιμ' Hec. 927, not πέσαιμ', πέσοι, not -σαι Alc. 1101. but intrans. as aor. fall, Soph. O. C. 1732: as aorist, farme Soph. O. C. 1732. Thus Schol. Il. 16, 827, Elms. Dind. Ellendt &c., while Etym. Mag. Buttm. Matth. Hermann formerly would write πιτνέω, -ω as pres. and έπιτνον as 2 aorist, after the analogy of δουπέω, ἔδουπον, στυγέω, ἔστυγον &c. The Mss. vary between πίτνω and πιτνέω: and most editions, especially the older, of the Tragedians have πιτνω circumflex. But since Elmsley's able defence of wirve Eur. Heracl. 77. Med. 55. Soph. O. C. 1732, several of our best scholars have shewn a decided leaning to his views, and edited πίτνω, πίτνεις, -ει &c. Thus Hermann now reads always in Aeschylus πίτνω, -νει, and πίτνων pres. pt. for πιτνών aor. Sept. 740. Ch. 35; so in Soph. (2. 3 ed.)—Linwood by an oversight gives Hermann's old reading-and mirve for -ve Eur. Hel. 910, mirres for -vei Phoen. 1420. Or. 1542 &c., and Dindorf accents πέτνει, πίτνων Pind. P. 8, 93. N. 5, 42, for πιτνεῖ, πιτνῶν retained by Boeckh, Bergk, and Schneidewin: imp. ἔπετνεν Ol. 2, 23 (Dissen, Christ), -ίτνει (Beck, Bergk). In fact, Dindi have been challenged to produce &c. The supporters of πιτνέω have been challenged to produce a form proving its existence independent of the accent. They can do this, for προσπιτνούμεν Soph. O. C. 1754, has Ms. authority. Still this is not decisive, because it is opposed by προσπίτνομεν on at least equal authority, and it is not necessary for the metre; and imper. προσπίτνει, προπιτ- (Elms.), also Ms. reading Eur. Her. 619, is opposed by προσπεσών in Ms. Florr., and προσπιτνών in the Aldine, which last Elmsley by mere change of accent altered to προσπίτνων, adopted by L. Dind. Pflugk, W. Dind. Nauck &c. After all, there seems to be wisdom in Buttmann's caution in "not rejecting the supposition that πίτνω and πιτνέω may have existed together like βυνέω and βύνω, δυνέω and δύνω, without ἔπιτνον being therefore necessarily an imperfect; ἔκλυον from κλύω is used by the same Tragedians as an aorist." The form πιτνῶντα Pind. I. 2, 26 (Vulg.) has been displaced by πίτνοντα (Bergk, Hart. Momms.), πιτνόντα (Boeckh, Schn.)-Lyric and Tragic.

We should not however feel warranted, with some, to Emped. 251; Mosch. 2, 148; Ap. Rh. 2, 542; late prose, sage. We should not however feel warranted, with some, to reject the aorist simply because "it occurs not in early Epic, nor because it depends on imp. εμελλον;" for though the fut. or pres. be the usual construction, Homer has one instance of aor. without a various reading, ξμελλον ἐπαμῦναι II. 18, 98; so Antiph. ξμελλε καταστήσαι 1, 14; Isae. -καταλιπεῖν 9, 13. Homer, we think, never augments the simple form. We have not observed this verb simple or comp. in Comedy, nor in classic Attic prose.

Fut. act. πλεύσω seems to be late. ἐκπλεύσεις in some editions of Soph. Ph. 381, is merely an emendation of Brunck for the Mss. reading ἐκπλεύσης which is now admitted by scholars to be correct, notwithstanding Dawes' Canon regarding the construction of οὐ μή—an arbitrary canon certainly, and now little regarded; and καταπλεύσειν Dinarch. 3, 2 (Mss.) is, Bekker supposes, a mistake for aor. καταπλεύσαι which he has accordingly edited, with the approval of our best scholars. Its solitariness creates suspicion; for not only the purer Attics, but the early writers of every class, have so cautiously avoided the use of the active form that, with this exception, we know not an authenticated instance. On the fut. mid. forms πλεύσομαι, -σούμαι &c. the best Mss. and editions vary and differ-always -ouas, however, in Hom. and Her .-: but to what extent, in Attic writers, this difference is owing to the copyists, it is difficult to ascertain. Poppo says both forms are Thucydidean: L. Dind. however is expelling the contr. forms -σούμαι &c. from Xenophon, and W. Dind. has expelled them from his last edition of Demosthenes: Krüger and Bekker are more conservative. The Attics seem to have contracted only εε, εει of this verb: πλέεις, -είς, πλέει, -είς ἔπλεε, -ει, but πλέω, πλέηε, πλέομεν, ἐπλέομεν &c. πλέει Thuc. 4, 28 (Vulg.) is now corrected from Mss. πλεῖ (Bekk. Popp.), Krüger however still retains πλέει. πλέετε though well supported, Xen. An. 7, 6, 37 (2 Mss. Krüg.) is yielding to πλείτε (Dind. Bornem. Cobet, Sauppe), and ἔπλεεν Hell. 6, 2, 27, has been corrected ἔπλει by L. Dind. and Sauppe but retained by Kühner and Breitenbach; πλέων by synizesis Od. 1, 183. The contr. form never takes ν ephelkust. thus ἔπλεεν, but ἔπλει, never ἔπλειν. Hom. however has for for foreer Il. 3, 388.

These, to be sure, are easily amended by substituting the kindred verb, and in the first passage it is actually a But though uniformity be desirable, it is difficult and rather hazardous to confine words, especially if akin, exactly to their own proper limits. With them also affinity tends to reciprocity -an occasional interchange of duties. This alternation, therefore, may not always be owing to the mistakes or ignorance of transcribers; and we may be imposing on the Greeks a law which we ourselves do not observe. Examine the usage of our corresponding verb fill, and see if we are more uniform than they. The cistern fills sixty gallons, and it fills again in forty minutes.

The classic Attic usage of the simple verb seems to have been: in the act. form, fut. πλήξω, p. πέπληγα very rare, aor. ἔπληξα doubtful: in the passive, perf. πέπληγμα, 2 aor. ἐπλήγην, 3 fut. πεπλήξομαι. The other parts were supplied by τύπτω, παίω (ἐκ-, ἐπι- πλήττω, ἐκ-πατάσσω), fut. παίσω (παιήσω, πατάξω poet.), aor. ἐπάταξα, ἔπαισα: pass. τύπτομαι (ἐκπλήττομαι) rarely παίομαι, never πατάσσομαι—in Hom. however, occurs ἐκ-πεπαταγμένος Od. 18, 327, and in Luc. παταχθείς Gym. 3. Lys. 4, 15, gives us a glimpse of the usage, πότερον ἐπλήγην ἢ ἐπάταξα; and Dem. ὁ πληγείς, κῶν ἐτέρωσε πατάξης 4, 40. ἔπληγε Aesop 97 (62. 170) called 2 aor. seems to be a false reading for 1 aor. ἔπληξε, now the approved reading (Halm 347.) πεπλήγωντες Callim. κατα-πονήσεσθαι mid. trans. Diod. Sic. quoted, has been missed by all Lexicogr. The act. form occurs neither in Hom. nor Hes. and rarely in Her. Indeed the early poets seem to have used it as a dep. mid. Some grammarians say that πονέω retains ε, as πονέσω, when it expresses bodily pain. Classic writers however seem constantly to use it with η, as πονήσω &c. Hippocr. and the later writers use it interchangeably with ε and η without any regard to the distinction of grammarians.

Prot. 356.—a is long, hence πρᾶττε, πρᾶξαι. In Antiphon, Blass always edits -σσω except in the sixth orat, which he thinks a later production. The Ionic form is  $\pi \rho \dot{\eta} \sigma \sigma \omega$ , Her. 5, 106 &c. πράσσω, -ττω in act. is sometimes used in the sense exact Pind. Ol. 3, 7; Aesch. Ch. 311; Her. 1, 106, and also in the seemingly intrans. meaning of πέπρᾶγα, as εὖ πρᾶσσε Eur. Phoen. 403, κακῶς Pl. Prot. 313 &c. but in these formulas the meaning is really trans., the object being merely dropped. This appears from fuller expressions, as καλὰ πράσσω Thuc. 6, 16,—τὰ μέγιστα Ar. Eccl. 104, πάντα τὰγαθὰ πεπράσω Ran. 303. Thuc. and the Tragedians use the form πράσω almost exclusively: πράττω however is the reading of the best Mss. Soph. Tr. 1156. Ph. 1449, ξύμπραττε Aj. 1396, and πράττωτας Eur. Fr. Melan. 13, is still retained (Matth., 20 Wagn., πρασσ- 509 Dind. 5 ed.); Aristoph., Plato, and the Orators event perhaps Antiphon. πράττω: editors of and the Orators, except perhaps Antiphon, πράττω; editors of Xen. vary, Dind. -ττω perhaps uniformly. πεπραξόμενα redupl. fut. part. Joseph. Ant. 18, 6, 6 (Dind. Bekk.) if correct, is unclassic, πραξόμενα, πραχθησόμενα (Mss.) perhaps correctly, see 18, 9, 5. See πολεμέω.

Some assert that this verb in Homer and Herodotus always means to learn by hearsay without implying previous inquiry. We doubt this. ὅ με προέηκε πυθέσθαι Il. 11, 649, and ἔρχεο πευσόμενος πατρὸς δὴν οἰχομένοιο Od. 1, 281. 15, 270, seem to imply inquiry, for besides the nature of the errand, Patroclus is enjoined (Il. 11, 611) τω... ἔρειο, and Telemachus (Od. 1, 284) ἐλθὲ καὶ εἴρεο; and in Her. ἐπυνθάνετο 1, 35. 2, 2. 4, 167. 5, 92, implies direct inquiry, and in 7, 100, seems to have as an equivalent, or to be explained by ἐπειρωτέων; so ἄγγελον ἔπεμπον πευσόμενοι Her. 4, 145, see 167. 7, 139; ἐπειρόμενοι ἐπύθετο 3, 64 &c. We are inclined to doubt the Dor. fut. form πευσείσθε

Aesch. Pr. 988, quoted. It is neither required by the metre, nor the dialect. Besides, there is not a trace of the Doric form in any other Attic writer, nor even in Aeschylus himself. πεύσομα stands in all Mss. and edit. Ag. 599, where -οῦμαι is admissible, and for πεύσεσθε Pr. 642, one would as readily expect -εῖσθε as at 988, where in most Mss. and edit. it does stand, nor is there any trace of the Dor. πευσεῖ for πεύσει Pr. 963. Ag. 266. Eum. 415. 419. 454. We are therefore inclined to think that πεύσεται (Mss. Vit. Colb. 1. Par. D. Schütz, Dind.) ought to be preferred to -εῖσθε though supported by (Mss. M. G. Lips. Par. B. old edit. and Blomf. Herm. Well. &c.) Attic prose writers however have both πλεύσομαι and -οῦμαι, and Aristoph. has without necessity of metre at least πνευσείται Ran. 1221 (-εται Dind.)

The aor. form ἐπύρεσε which occurs in Hippocr. 3, 516. 553. 563 (Kühn) appears to be a false reading. In the first instance the Mss. have ἐπηρέτηνεν (C), ἐπύρεσσε (D H K), in the second ἐπύρεσσεν (id.), in the hird ἐπύρεσσεν (D Γ G H I). Accordingly Littré reads aor. ἐπυρέτηνεν 5, 150, and imp. ἐπύρεσσε 5, 216. 230, of his edition.

Fut. act. ρεύσω Hippocr. 1, 432 (Kühn) we suspect for two reasons: first, he very frequently uses ρεύσομαι 6, 440. 442. 7, 224. 256. 556. 588. 8, 100. 124; second, in the passage quoted, the reading ρεύσει τε is so near ρεύσεται that we believe the former a mistake for the latter. (This emendation is now confirmed: Littré (7, 256) has edited ρεύσεται from Mss. so Ermerins 2, 365.) The only other instance of fut. act. in the Hippocratic writings is ρεύσει τε &c. 8, 596 (Lit.) which, if necessary, may perhaps be treated in the same way, but if thought sound, we should say is a symptom of a late hand. For ρεύσαντα Pl. Rep. 544, ρέψαντα has been restored from Mss. ρΰη Ερία 2 aor. p. for ἐρρύη, Od. 3, 455. This verb like other dissyllabic verbs in εω does not contract εη, εο, εω.

The strict Attic form of aor. pass. seems to be ἐρρήθην, the strict Ionic εἰρέθην. ἐρρέθην has occasionally support in the Mss. and editions of the orators, Aeschin. 2, 31. 118; often in those of Plato, Leg. 664. Theaet. 168. Conv. 193 &c. where late editors have generally substituted ἐρρήθην. Bait. Orell. however still retain ἐρρέθην Theaet. 168. In Her. εἰρήθην is sometimes well supported, 7, 184. At 8, 119, occur as a v. r. ἡρέθη, ἐρρέθη. Old editions have often ἐρρήθην, but Gaisf. Bekk. Krüg. Dind. Bred. &c. always, we think, εἰρέθην: ε however is confined to indic., ῥηθείς Her. 1, 109. 6, 86; ῥηθῆναι Her. 3, 9, see above.

Does this point to theme ρίφω? or may it be for ἔρρῖπε? or is it the perf. with ζ, though it be naturally long, ρῖπτε, ρῖψαι, ρῖπή? Elms. Eur. Heracl. 150, wished to banish the form ρἰπτέω from the Tragedians, and Nauck and Kirchhoff, we think, sympathise with him. Ellendt, again, and Paley vary with the Mss. In Soah harmon Dind ware always edite the pure form. Soph. however Dind. now always edits the pure form  $(-\epsilon\omega, -\omega)$ -εί; but pt. ρίπτων with Elms. Herm. held, with the old Grammarians, ρίπτεω to be a strengthened form of ρίπτω, as jacto of jacio, and was inclined to think that the form should be determined by the meaning. We doubt if the Greeks always observed this distinction. observed this distinction. Ar. uses ριπτείτε χλαίνας Eccl. 507, where the form pintere is inadmissible, but its meaning required -a simple throw, no repetition of the act. At Pax 962, again, τοις θεαταίς ρίπτε των κριθών savours more of repetition, and yet ρίπτείτε could not stand; so έρριπτε Her. 5, 92 (6) decidedly of repetition.

Pax 716. Eq. 360, Elms. and Dind. read fut. mid. ροφήσει as the legitimate Attic form, and refer to ροφήσομι Vesp. 814. This assumes however that Aristoph. would in no case use the act. and mid. fut. in the same sense: We think this rather stringent, for with fut. mid. καύσεται Plut. 1054, he has κατα-καύσω Lys. 1218, which, we think, both would allow to be fut. act. not aor. subj., and τέξομαι Lys. 744, but fut. act. τέξει Eq. 1037, -ειν Thesm. 509, πατήσεις Eq. 166, but ἀπο-πατησύμενοι Plut. 1184. Unfortunately, in this and several other verbs similarly circumstanced the fut. occurs most frequently in 2 sing. where the difference between act. and mid. is so small—only ε—as to raise doubt and provoke change.

σεῦται Soph. quoted, is 3 sing. pres. for σεύεται. σύμενος accented as pres. Aesch. Ag. 747. Eum. 1007, is part. of syncop. sor. ἐσῦμην; others refer it to pres. (σύμι). Opt. with augm. ἐσσεύαιτο is in the Mss. Il. 17, 463, and used so to be edited before Wolf; so subj. 1 sor. pass. ἐσσυθῆ Hippocr. 1, 394, but grammarians and late editors hold these to be vicious forms, and have substituted σεύαιτο in Hom., and suggested or adopted ἐκσυθῆ in Hippocr. ἀπέσσυα, -ουα given above as 2 sor. pass. Laconic for ἀπεσσύη seems to some rather doubtful. The reading is not certain; for both at Xen. Hell. 1, 1, 23, and Plut. Alcib. 28, it is opposed by ἀπέσσῦται &c. Besides, say they, in genuine Doric, η of the sor. pass. was not changed; nor does ov seem to have been used for v when this letter was written. Both of these assertions however Bergk denies (Zeitschr. für Altert., Erstes Heft. 1852). Ahrens (Dial. Dor. p. 147) thinks that Hippocr. wrote ἀπέσστα=ἀπέστη, which is certainly very near Hesychius's gloss ἀπεσία (cod. ἀπεσσία), ἀπέδρα. We hesitate however to condemn with Ahrens economy as not Greek. the Greeks could form εδύην from δύω, διεκδυήναι Hippocr. 1, 601 (K.), ἐπτύην from πτύω, 5, 106 (Lit.), ἐρρύην from ῥέω, Thuc. 3, 116, ἐφύην from φύω, if sound Eur. Fr. 378; Hippocr. 1, 404 &c. we do not see why they might not form ἐσσύην from σεύω οι σύω.

Σήθω, see σάω, to sift.

The same variation occurs in Hippocr. σινεόμενος 7, 562. 592, σίνομ-7, 592 &c. (Lit.) But as σίνομαι alone occurs in Hom. and the earlier writers, and often in Her. without a variation, 1, 17. 5, 27. 6, 97, σινοίατο 9, 51, ἐσίνοντο 5, 74, one feels rather inclined to believe it the genuine form. The pres. of ἀπο-στερίω act. and pass. is more frequently used, especially in prose. An act. form στέρω, ἀποστέρω has some Ms. support Isocr. 12, 243, opposed by ἀποστερῶ, to which it is possible to refer as fut. στερεῖ Acsch. quoted, and mid. ἀποστερεῖσθε as pass. Paley also adopts imp. swayed, it would appear, by some scruple about admitting "the form in ξ into a senarius." But we think the examples given above shew that the early inflection of this verb was with γ, not with ε, and that the Attics followed it. If therefore a fut. aor. &c. were required, a form in ξ was the only one their usage afforded. So στίζω always with ξ, aor. στίξας Ar. Ran. 1511 (chor.), but fut. στίξω Eup. Com. Fr. 2, 530 (senar.)

A Boeotic form of this aor. ἐστροτευάθη occurs in Ussing's Inscr. Gr. ined. p. 41, n. 52. We may mention here an oversight of one of our best Lexicons regarding the compound συ- or ξυστρατεύω, that "Thuc. always uses it as act." We are certain of four or five instances of mid. ξυνεστρατεύοντο 2, 56. 80; -όμενος 5, 60. 7, 42. 61; -εσθαι 7, 20. The remark would apply better to Thucydides' use of ἐπιστρατεύω. There seems to be no undoubted classical instance of either

There seems to be no undoubted classical instance of either the 2 aor. act. ἔσφάλον, or mid. ἐσφαλόμην. ἔσφαλε certainly occurs in Pind. Ol. quoted, Pyth. 8, 15, and Nem. 11, 31, but it is the Dor. form of the 1 aor. ἔσφάλε. At Pl. Euthyd. 296, Lycophr. 21, has ἐσχάζοσαν an Alexandrine form of the 3 pl. imp. for ἔσχαζον. σχάσαντες Callim. Fr. 104, 1, seems to be a false reading. Blomf. in loc. says "σχάσωντες demittentes, uti vertit Bentleius, stare nequit, cum penultimam corripiat. Corrige σχήσωντες, inhibentes, cujus quidem aoristi aliud exemplum non habeo." An example of this aor. occurs in Nonnus, σχήσειε 17, 177, and σχήσησθα in H. Hym. Cer. 366, but seemingly a mistake for fut. σχήσεισθα; but it might, perhaps, be as easy to read in Callim. σχάσσαντες which seems to satisfy both the See Pind. P. 10, 51; Eur. 1385; Ar. Lys. 501, σωτέος (Hesych.) Epic σαόω, σώω.

The form σώζω is rare in Epic: Hom. only once, σώζων Od. quoted (Mss. Wolf, Dind. La R.) which Bekk. however writes now with Buttm. σώων; Hes. once as a v. r. σώζοι Opp. 376; Theogn. thrice, 68. 235. 675; Callim. thrice, Del. 150. 151. Epigr. 50, 4; Orph. thrice, Hym. 9, 12. 75, 5. 85, 10 (δια-85, γ); Mosch. once, 4, 3; Maneth. once, 1, 325; Ap. Rh. never; Nicand. never, &c. Dor. σφίω, fut. σφίω, aor. ἔσφία, κατ- Inscr. Tab. Heracl. 2, 30, but κατ- ἐσφσα Β. 47, 1, 3, and σῶσαι Sophr. 26 (Ahr.) which however may be referred to pres. σωννύω (Dinol. Signilla): Lacon σωάλλι (Hesych) We know no instance of Siculus); Lacon. σωάδδει (Hesych.) We know no instance of fut. mid. σώσεσθαι being passive; for pres. σώζεσθαι, not fut. σώσεσθαι, is the approved reading Dem. 19, 44 (Bekk. B. S. Dind.) σέσωμαι, though less frequent, is by some accounted more Attic than σέσωσμαι. Photius says οἱ παλαιοὶ ἄνεν τοῦ s, and Buttm. and L. Dind. approve. Accordingly, in his last edit. of Xen. An. Dind. edits σέσωται 7, 7, 56 (-ωσται Saupp.), σεσωμένος 5, 5, 8 (so Saupp.): in the Cyr. however he still retains—why we see not—σέσωσμαι 5, 4, 11, σεσωσμένος 3, 2, 15 (so Saupp.) We think it likely that both forms were in use. Buttm. notices a form found in Inscr. (600) σώω which he calls an old fut. like the Epic fut. ἐρύουσι &c. L. Dind. writes it σωῶ, and says that σωεῖ is the reading of Ms. Med. Aesch. Ch. 1059, and W. Dind. has so edited (3 edit.) If this be correct, it is a striking peculiarity in Attic usage—so striking as to rouse demur. In the ed. of 1865, he recalled σώσει, for which he now (5 ed.) reads είς σοι with Erfurdt.

Hippocr. 3, 226 (Kühn.) This, however, would seem to be a mistake, for though ἐνταννύειν has the best Mss. support in the second, seventh, eighteenth and twentieth lines of the section (57th Littré, vol. 4, 244), ἐκτανύουσ, ξυνεκτανν- with single ν, have the best in lines fourth and eighth; and ἐκταννειν 4, 254 (Lit.) has far better support than ἐκτανν- (Vulg.); so παρατανύσαντα without ν. r. 4, 188 (Lit.), τανύσας 3, 39 (Kühn) &c. &c.; Littré uniformly, we think, edits with single ν.

Hom. has also the Attic fut. τελώ II. 4, 161. Perf. with long vowel τετέληκα occurs C. Inscr. 2885, 7: and aor. mid. τελήσασθαι Aristid. vol. 2, p. 153 (Jebb, -έσασθαι Dind.) Buttm. says τελεύμενα Her. 3, 134, is a fut. and so, we suppose, 1, 206. Is this necessary? At II. 15, 228, Bekk. now reads γε τελέσθη for γ' ἐτελ- but holds it spurious. τέλεσκε Callim. Fr. 434, and, as it ought to be, τέλεσκον Dian. 123, not ἐτελ- (Blomf. &c.) are for -έεσκε &c. Some think τελέσκων Nicand. Fr. 2, 10 (74, 10 Otto Schn.), a false form for τελίσκων, as εὐρίσκω &c. and which Nic. uses Alex. 583 (Gottlob Schn.); but τελέσκω may be formed from τελέω, as κορέσκω from κορέω, Alex. 225. 360 &c. &c. and Otto Schneid. actually reads τέλεσκε Alex. 583 (Ms. P.) for τελίσκει (Vulg.) The forms τελειόω, -εόω are reg. and used indiscriminately in Poet. and Prose. Her. however always -εόω, 1, 120. 160. 3, 86. 5, 11.

Od. 11, 249, fut. act. τέξειε seems to have been the reading of Aristarchus, mid. τέξειε seems to have been the reading of Aristarchus, mid. τέξειε of Zenodotus, which has been adopted by Porson, Bekker, Foesi, and now Dindorf (4 ed.). The mid. is rather the more freq. form in classic authors, decidedly so in late. The rare fut. form τεξείεσθε Aratus 124 (Bekk.) seems to resemble (θερείομαι) θερείομενος Nic. Ther. 124. Alex. 567. Τέτεγμαι, τέτογμαι, ἐτέχθην rare, and in classic Attic rather doubtful. Buttm. doubts the fut. form τεκείσθαι Η. Ven. 127, and suggests aor. τεκέσθαι.

In the pres. and imp. is long in Epic, short in Attic and Solon's Fr. 13, 31 (Bergk); Pind. P. 2, 24; in Theogn. short and long, ἀντιτύνιν 740, but in arsi τίνονται 204; so Anth. τίνεις 9, 286, but τίνοιτε 7, 657 &c.; in the other tenses it is always long with poets of every description. ἐκτίνομεν Eur. Hipp. 626 (Vulg.) with ι long, is a false reading, as is clear from its giving no suitable meaning. Kirchhoff has restored ἐκτείνομεν from the best Mss. but suggests ἐκτήκομεν: Monk now reads ἐκτείνομεν: Pierson suggested ἐκπίνομεν, and this Dind. adopted; Seidler ἐτίνυμεν, which, if correct, is we think the only classic instance of the act. form. Now however Kirch. 2 ed. and Dind. 5 ed. reject, with Nauck, 625-6 as spurious. τίννμαι from τίνω, as ἄνυμαι from ἄνω, not τίνν-, the ι is always long. Bekker in Hom. and Her. always writes it with single ν, so Dind. τινύμεναι Eur. Or. 323 (chor.) where alone it occurs in Attic, and apparently with i; Buttm. however τίννυμαι, and in late Greek, Bekker. The act. form τίννμι, -ύω, or τινν- is late and rare, τιννύοντες Plut. Her. seems to have used both τρέπω and τράπω, but always ἐτράθην, and perhaps always τρέψω, ἔτρεψα, τρέψομαι, ἐτρέψατο. ἀπο-τρέψω occurs twice 8, 29, 62, no v. r.; the aor. ἔτρεψα and compds. twenty-six times with only one v. r. ἐπ-έτραψε 4, 202 (Vulg. Bekk.), which however is strongly opposed by -τρεψε (Mss. S P F a b. Gaisf. Dind. Bred.); τρέψομαι thrice without v. r., τράψομαι, ἐπι- once only 3, 155 (Vulg. Bekk. Gaisf.), but τρέψ- (Mss. S V); and ἐτρέψατο once 7, 225, without v. r. Usage therefore being so decidedly in favour of the fut. and aor. forms with ε, ἐπι-τράψονται 3, 155 (Vulg. Bekk. Gaisf. Lhard.) should, perhaps, be altered with Mss. S V to ἐπι-τρέψ-, which we observe has been recommended by Bredow, and actually adopted by Dietsch, Dind. Stein and Abicht. Iter. imp. τρέπεσκε Her. 4, 128 (Bekk. τράπ- Dind.) τετράφαται Ion. 3 pl. p. p. Theogn. 42; even Pl. P. 2, 44; 1 aor. part. θρέψαισα Pind. P. 8, 26. 2 aor. ἔτραφον trans. seems exceedingly rare, if not rather doubtful; for though it be coupled with an aor. in Pind. N. 3, 53, and Il. 23, 90, it may notwithstanding, perhaps, be an imperfect. Hes. uses imperf. ἔτρεφε Fr. 78, apparently in the same sense as aor. θρέψεν Fr. 111 (Goettl.) Buttm. maintains that 2 aor. pass. ἐτράφην is not Homeric, and that the forms ἔτραφέτην, Il. 5, 555 (ἐτράφειν as quoted in Aeschin. 1, 149, from Il. 23, 84 ἐτράφην-), τραφέμεν for -έειν, Il. 7, 199 &c., ἔτραφε Il. 21, 279, are forms of the 2 aor. act. with intrans. signification. Thiersch, Boeckh &c. suppose an Epic shortening for ἐτραφήτην (ἐτράφημεν), τραφήναι, ἐτράφη, and thus accent ἐτράφ not ἔτραφ Il. 21, 279. The assertion of Buttm. that ἔτραφον became obsolete is rather strong: see late Auth. quoted above. With regard to the laws which regulate the Greek aspirates, he says, "where two successive syllables begin each with an aspirate, one of the aspirates, generally the first, is changed to the tenuis of the same organ; and when by any formation the second disappears, the first is restored. Thus, the root of this verb is θρεφ-, whence τρέφω, and again θρέψω." This law, though general, is limited in several cases, as composition ὀρνιθο-θήμας, λιθω-θήναι, ἀμφι-φόβηθεν Il. 16, 290 &c.; synaloephe ἔφθιθ οἶτος (ἔφθιτο) Aesch. Eum. 458; intervention of a consonant ἐθρέφθην, ἐθραύσθην (bu ττέθρανμαι), ἐθέλχθην &c. &c. Editors however are not always constent; see above.

The fut. mid. ἀναδράμομαι Anth. 9, 575 quoted, seems analogous to the fut. ἔδομαι, φάγομαι &c. Fut. act. ὑπερδραμῶ also quoted, is the only instance we know in classic Greek: the simple δραμούμεν occurs late, V. T. Cant. 1, 4; see 2 Reg. 18, 19. The Greeks would seem to have said θεῖν δρόμφ Thuc. 3, 111; Xen. An. 1, 8, 18; Ar. Av. 205, perhaps never τρέχειν οτ δραμεῖν δρόμφ, like the Latin curriculo currere. Dindorf is inclined to read with Harduin, εδξασθαι for τεύξ-Themist. quoted, on the ground that it is not in use, and unsuited to the sense. The second reason is the stronger, but it does not affect the instance in Maccabees. In the sense to it does not affect the instance in Maccabees. For the aorists ἔτυψα, ἔτυπον the Attics used ἐπάταξα, ἔπαισα: τύπτει τὸν φρύνικον καὶ καταβάλλει πατάξας Lys. 13, 71. The presseems to have had three forms, τύπω, πτω, πτώ, and each with only partial development, at least in written classic speech. I fut. τύψω we have not seen earlier than Hierocles and Nonnus, but there it stands without a v. r.; the aor. ἔτυψα however of the same formation, is both early and frequent. Buttmann seems inclined to doubt τυπτήσομαι Ar. quoted, on what grounds we see not, and Dindorf follows him, and reads 2 fut. p. τυπήσομαι instead. τύπτω is one of the very few verbs that have 2 aor. act. and pass. in actual use. 1 perf. τέτυφα, 2 p. τέτυπα, 1 fut. p. τυφθήσομαι, and, unless correct Ar. quoted, τυπήσομαι we have never seen except in grammars.

With the Poets the pres. ὑπισχνοῦμαι is rare, imper. ὑπισχνοῦ Ar. Vesp. 750, quoted says the Schol. from Eur. Fr. Hipp. 19 (Wagn.): with this exception, they use 2 aor. only. Her. has both forms, ὑπίσχομαι, ὑπισχνέομ-, the former more freq. but ύπισχνεύμενος 2, 152. 3, 74. 5, 51, -εόμ- 8, 106, ὑπισχνέετο 9, 109, in the best Mss. and in all edit. we have seen. The 1 sor. pass. ύποσχέθητι is so rare that the instance quoted above is perhaps the only one in classic Attic; and though it has Ms. authority, its rarity as well as other reasons have rendered it suspicious. Bekker accordingly has displaced it by the kindred noun <sup>επο</sup>σχέσει offered by some good Mss. This aor. however certainly occurs later in other combinations, ἐπεσχέθην Callisth. Stob. 7, 65, κατα- (Eur.) Fr. Dan. 1117, 27 (Dind.); Arr. An. 5, 2, 7 (Krüg.), also the simple ἐσχέθην 5, 7, 4, σχέθηναι 6, 11, 2. An act. pres. form ὑπισχνῶν occurs late, Aesop 205 (Halm.) Hom. has κατ-ίσχω, and once κατ-ισχάνω. It would seem that ἴσχομαι is exclusively Poet, and Ionic only in combination with δπό: προσ-ίσχομαι Ar. Plut. 1096; Plut. (Teles) 108, 83, see below: in a mid. sense intrans. are used also πέφασμαι, ἐφάνην (and ἐφάνθην Traged. -αάνθ- Hom.), φανήσουμα, πέφηνα. Vb. ἄ-φαντος Il. 6, 60. The Attic poets have, each, fut. mid. -οῦμαι more freq. than fut. pass. -ήσομαι; united, double the times. In the Attic Historians also, -οῦμαι is quite the prevailing form; indeed we know only two instances of -ήσομαι, Thuc. and Xen. quoted: but in Her. and the Orators -ήσομαι exceeds -οῦμαι by 5 to 1. In Isocr. and Dem. the disproportion is very great; in the former 40 to 5, in the latter 58 or 60 to 16. Over all, then, in classic prose -ήσομαι is far the more frequent. This will serve to limit properly Buttmann's statement "the fut. mid. is the more common, the fut. pass. more frequent in verse." On both points he is wrong.

The 2 aor. act. and mid. have been entirely or almost banished from classic Greek, since for ἔφάνε Eur. H. F. 794, with pass. signif. ἐφάνη has been substituted; for subj. μὴ φάνης Com. Fr. (Philem.) 4, 53, which Lobeck calls a neoteric form of the 1 aor., Meineke suggests μὴ κφήνης; is not μὴ φήνης easier? κφάνης also, Mon. 418, admits, if necessary, of the same emendation; φάνεν δέ ἐ and showed herself, Q. Sm. 9, 484, has been altered by Lobeck to φάνεσκε, and by Koechly to φάνη δ'; Lehrs however retains the old reading, &c. &c.; opt. φανοίην Soph. Aj. 313, belongs to fut. φάνῶ; and φανοίμην opt. 2 aor. mid. which used to stand Xen. Cyr. 3, 1, 34, and retained by Poppo, has been altered for the v. r. φαινοίμην by Bornem. Dind. Saupp. &c., in which Poppo would probably now acquiesce; φανοίμεθα formerly Isocr. 18, 30, now φαινοίμ-; but Dor. φάνευ still, Stob. (Teles) 108, 83. In Attic prose, the 1 aor. pass. ἐφάνθην seems to be strictly pass., was shown, made known, Dem. 5, 9 &c.; in Hom. however perhaps always, and occasionally in the Traged. it takes the mid. or intrans. meaning, appear, which 2 aor. ἐφάνην uniformly has, Il. 1, 200; Soph. Ant. 103. At Archimed. Aren. p. 331, occurs the Dor. fut. φανήσειν, which Lobeck (Buttm. Gramm. V. 2, p. 311), thinks corrupted from φανήσομαι. Epic forms: ἐφάνθην for ἐφάνθ- Ap. Il. 22, 73; inf. φανήμεναι for φανήναι, 9, 240. Fut. φανῶ, contrary to its usual quantity, has ā Ar. Eq. 300 (Bekk. Dind. 2 ed.), so ἀναφᾶνῶ Eur. Bac. 527 (Dind.), for which however Herm. Kirchh. Nauck read press. ἀναφαίνω, and Aristoph. admits of the same emendation-and Burges, Bergk, Meineke, Dind. 5 ed. adopt it; an easy emendation certainly, if the anomaly cannot be satisfactorily explained, and this seems difficult to do. Some say it is from φαείνω, fut. φαένω contr. φανώ? This is at least intelligible; but Aristophanes' own usage rather inclines us to the change. He uses ἀποφάνῶ Nub. 1331, but shirks ἀποφάνῶ 1334, and escapes on ἀποδείξω—unless, which some may think more probable, he here selects the latter as a stronger term.

Attic writers use both aorists act. ήνεγκα, ήνεγκα, but partially. In simple, ήνεγκαν is more frequent than ήνεγκα, but Poelic, and perhaps in 1 sing. only, Soph. O. C. 521. 964. Fr. 592; Ar. It would thus appear that the 1 aor. is more complete and less confined in usage, and that its parts with a, excepting 1 sing., are more frequent than the corresponding parts with o and ε of the 2 aor.

3 sing. ήνεγκε seems referrible to both, but as the form in a is confined, or almost confined, to Poetry, a doubt may arise whether ήνεγκε in prose may not properly belong to the form in a, and whether Breitenbach, Sauppe, Shenkl have done well in disturbing the received reading διηνέγκαμεν Xen. Oec. 9, 8, for -ομεν of some Mss. No doubt Xen. is not shy of a Poetic form, but in this very treatise he uses διήνεγκαν 20, 18, so ήνεγκαν Hell. 4, 1, 27, είσ-2, 1, 5. 5, 1, 21, έπ-6, 5, 36, προσ-7, 2, 5. Cyr. 7, 1, 1: and Isocr. though using 1 pers. διήνεγκον 18, 59 —the only certain instance of 2 aor. we know in classic prose —seems to do so merely to avoid hiatus - cyκον, ότι, for before a consonant he has εἰσήνεγκα τῶν 17, 41, and 1 pl. ἡνίγκαμεν 15, 5, δι- 12, 53. 19, 17, διήνεγκαν 8, 85. 104. 12, 55. 123. 189. 15, 207. 208, είσ- 19, 36, έξ- 5, 54 &c. Nay, even in Poetry ήνεγκα has perhaps the best claims to ηνέγκε. Facts seem to confirm this, at least to point this way: Aesch. has ηνέγκε Ch. 992, but προσ-ήνεγκαν 76; Soph. has I pers. ηνέγκα Elec. 13, and ηνέγκον O. C. 521. 964 &c., but εξήνεγκα Tr. 741; Eur. has ηνέγκε Heracl. 332, but ήνεγκαν I. A. 800, δι- Bac. 1087; Ar. has Писуков Lys. 944. Ran. 1299 (both for the metre?), but Писуказ Av. 540, εξ-ηνέγκατε Vesp. 815, and, what we think a stronger case, in Thesm. 743, one of the women says εγω ήνεγκον, Mnesilochus sharply asks ήνεγκας σύ? evidently shying ήνεγκες, and by implication showing, one is apt to surmise, no favour for its lineal descendant fiveyee. Since then the Attic Poets use, beyond the I pers. no form which must necessarily be referred to the formation in o, and since they seem to have even avoided proceeding on this formation, the natural inference appears to be that Indic. преуког was limited in usage to the I sing.

If then these data be correct, and the induction just, there appear grounds for supposing first, that 2 sor. freykov is not, or scarcely, a prose form; second, that it is probably confined to the I pers. sing.; third, that it is more frequent than fiveyea in the simple only, not in the compound form, άπ-ήνεγκα, είσ-, έξ-, έπ-, A few exceptions, if correct, occur as v. r. and occaμет- &С. sionally in text, ἐπ-ήνεγκες late, Sopat. A 2 fut. seems to occur late, φυγείς Praecept. Salubr. l. 42, p. 133 (Didots), ἐκ- ibid. favouring φυγεῖ (=φεύξεται) a gloss in Cod. Paris. Ar. Plut. 496, for which Dind. suggests, perhaps needlessly, subj. φύγη: and mid. φῦγοῦμαι, -γεῖται Orac. Sib. 12, 109, -γοῦνται 9, 45. 239 (also, if correct, φύγεται 10, 93. 253, -γονται 3, 265.) πεφυζότες is perhaps syncopated for που δινέοι whence can make the characteristics. from φυζάω, whence sor. pass. φυζηθείς Nic. pass. see above: 2 aor.? Ion. 3 pl. διεφθαρέατο pass. Her. 8, 90 (Gaisf. &c.), but plp. διεφθάρατο (Herm. Bekk. Dind. Bredow, Stein) perhaps correctly; though we do not with some think it a valid reason for rejecting the aorist simply because it is found nowhere else. The plp. certainly expresses the time more exactly, but we are not fond of saying that Her. could not in the circumstances express his meaning with sufficient precision by the aorist. In our language, at least, were destroyed would convey the meaning nearly as well as had been destroyed—διεφθειρέετο imp. in Ms. a c, is evidently wrong. Vb. φθαρτός Aristot. Met. 9, 10. A Dor. form of fut. act. καταφθαρεί οccurs Plut. Mor. 240 (Vulg.), but -φθερεί (Dübn.); and διαφθαρέει v. r. for -φθερέει Her. 5, 51. φθαρησούμενος (Pl.) Tim. Locr. 94, has better support than -σόμενος, but in Plato's genuine writings, Eur. &c. the approved form is φθαρησούμ. 3 pl. p. p. occurs in the Ionic form ἐφθάραται Thuc. 3, 13—a rare form this in Attic prose, occurring only, we think, in τάσσω, τρέφω, φθείρω, and only in Thuc. 3, 13. 4, 31. 5, 6. 7, 4; Xen. An. 4, 8, 5; and Pl. Rep. 533.

Chariton 1, 1, 8, he would change to fut. φθίσων, which Matthiae and Wunder approve: Hercher reads σώματος αὐτῷ φθίνοντος intrans. καταφθίνοντοι also is a well-supported reading, and trans. Theocr. 25, 122 (Fritzsche, and Ziegl. 1 ed.) Meineke from some misgiving about its being act. in the pres. recalls the old reading καταφθιίρουσι (so Ziegl. 2 ed.), but suggests καταφθινύθουσι. The emendation suggested is not violent, and it satisfies the sense and metre; but καταφθινύθω is notoriously intrans. as well as trans. and we really do not see why φθίνω should not be allowed to be so too: ἢλιος πάντα βλαστάνει καὶ φθίνει Trag. Eq. 1015. 1030. 1058; nor Attic prose; it does however in Ionic, ἐφράζετο Her. 3, 154, φραζόμενοι, ἐπι- 6, 133: sor. φράσασθαι Hippocr. 3, 226. 228. 5, 252 (Lit.), ἐπι- Her. 1, 48. 5, 9, so that the assertions "the middle occurs only in the Epic poets, and in one Oracle in Her. 3, 57," and "ἐφρασάμην is Epic only" are rather too unqualified; the more so as Solon has ἐφρασάμην 5, 4, -άσαντο 34, 1 (Bergk), Archil. ἐφράσω Fr. 94 (Bergk); Aesch. imper. φράσαι Ch. 113 (trimet.). 592 (chor.); and Eur. inf. φράσασαι Med. 653 (chor.) ἐπέφραδον, πέφραδον seems to have analogy in πέφνον, ἔπεφνον &c. sufficient to prevent the necessity of having recourse, with Thiersch, to ἐπιφράζω; though we cannot allow with some, that the mere fact of the non-occurrence of the moods in the compound form proves his view to be incorrect: it may be a presumption against it. By the way, ἐπιφράζω in the act. form seems rather doubtful; ἐπιφράσαι Her. 1, 179 (Vulg.) is now read ἔτι φράσαι (Matth. Bekk. Dind. Gaisf.) We have been the more particular with this verb because we have seen statements regarding its usage tending to mislead.

Cyr. 7, 1, 31: 2 aor. κεκάδόμην -δοντο Il. 4, 497. α is short, hence the doubling of σ. This verb is Poet. especially Epic, rare if at all in Attic poetry; for in the solitary instance Eur. Or. 1116, οὐ χάζομαι is opposed in the Mss. by οὐχ ἄζομαι, which is approved by Elms. Monk, Herm. Dind. Kirchh. Paley; χάζομαι however is the reading of Br. Pors. Matth. In Attic prose, Xen. has pres. act. imp. and 1 aor. mid. in comp. For διαχάσασθαι Cyr. 7, 1, 31 (Dind. Popp. Saupp.) some good Mss. and edit. have διαχωρήσαι; but the fact of Xen. using ἀνα-χάζω, -άζετο, and his fondness for poetic words, favour the received reading.

Besides, we quite agree with Poppo "verbum (διαχάσασθαι) non videtur a librariis aut grammaticis confingi potuisse."

videtur a librariis aut grammaticis conningi potuisse.

χαίρω." It may have been duty to say χαίρω, but we would rather put the obligation on usage than on the reason or principle assigned, "αὐτὸ γὰρ τὸ χαίρω αὐτοπαθές δυ προυφήρπασευ αὐτοῦ τὸ σημαινόμενου." This is not confined in its scope to the present; and so should barbarise κεχαρήσεται in the Odyssee, because κεχαρησέμεν occurs in the Iliad.

Pass. χατίζεσθαι Aesch. Ag. 304, is a suggestion of Heath and Porson, and adopted by Hermann, Enger, Paley, doubtingly by Blomf. for χαρίζεσθαι (Mss. Vulg.), ραχίζεσθαι (Dind. 5 ed.) This verb is not as Lexicons say "nur dicherich," for χατίζει is in Hippocr.

The 2 aor. is certainly rare, but κατ-έχεσον occurs in Alcae. Comic. quoted; and Ar. has χεσεῦν Thesm. 570, where, if he chose, he might have used χέσαι. Besides, Lobeck says if he chose, he might have used xérau. Besides, Lobeck says the fut. xéreu Anth. quoted, should be 2 aor. xereu we think him right: and for καταπεσών Ar. But χολώσεαι also Il. 14, 310, is fut. in form, and under the influence of the same words (μή πως), is it therefore under exactly the same influence? Or is the latter a softer touch, shading off into the milder subjunctive? If so, χολώσεαι in Hom. is a shortened form for - wonau.

In Attic, this verb with some others contracts in η instead of a, χρῆ, χρῆται, χρῆσθε, χρῆσθαι, ἐχρῆτο, Pl. Hipp. min. 369; Soph. O. R. 878. Tr. 906; Eur. Hipp. 107; Ar. Eq. 124; Thuc. 1, 68. 6, 92; Pl. Lach. 194, but ἐχρᾶτο Anaxipp. Com. Fr. 4, 459; so late, Paus. &c., and usu. in Ion. χρᾶται, χρᾶσθαι, χράσθαι, κράσθαι, ἐχρᾶτο &c. Her. 1, 132. 3, 20. 2, 123. 3, 3 &c. &c., rarely χρῆσθαι 7, 18, κατα- 3, 36 (Bekk. Gaisf. Dind. -ᾶσθαι Lhard. Bred. Stein), ἐχρῆτο 3,41.129 (Bekk. Gaisf.), -ᾶτο (Lhard. Bred. Stein.) Indeed Lhardy and Bredow would write uniformly with a as the true Ionic form; and Mss. as well as analogy seem to favour them, see δρμᾶται Her. 2, 33, σπᾶται 9, 107, κατ-ορᾶται 2, 138 &c. &c. Buttmann's assertion that Her. contracts as into η if ε precede, is rather strong, for θυμιῆται 4, 75, quoted as an instance, is opposed by θυμιᾶται (Mss. S V), and βιᾶται 3, 80 without v. r., ἐπαιτιᾶται 2, 121, v. r. - ασθαι, -ασαι, not ῆσ-. From the formation in - έομαι, χρέεται Her. 4, 50, διιι- 1, 58, - έονται 1, 34, - έεσθαι 1, 21, ἀπεχρέετο 8, 14, ἐχρέοντο 2, 108; so Hippocr. - εόμεθα 7, 224 (Lit.); imper. χρέο 2, 520, v. r. - έω (Mss. A G), - εέσθω 7, 246. 288, - έεσθαι 7, 168. 176 &c.; - εόμενος 2, 108 (Bekk.), see below: for εο often - εω, as χρέωνται Her. 1, 94. 132. 2, 86 &c. (Vulg. Bekk. Gaisf. - έονται Schaef. Dind. Bred.), ἐχρέωντο 1, 53. 3, 57. 5, 114 &c. (Vulg. Bekk. Gaisf. Stein, - έοντο Schaef. Dind. Bred.), especially part. χρεώμενος 1, 203. 2, 15. 3, 77. 4, 96. 5, 9 &c. (Schaef. Bekk. Gaisf. Dind. Stein, - εόμενος Bred. Abicht); so Hom. χρέωμ- Il. 23, 834, imper. χρέω Her. 1, 155 (χρέο Schaef. Stein; so Hippocr. 2, 520 Lit., v. r. - έω Mss. A G). In this verb Lhardy condemns the forms in εε, εο, and maintains those in ᾶ εω, to be genuine Ionic.

F. 21, τῷ χρεών πόσει Eur. Fr. 503, 2 (Dind.), εἰς τὸ μὴ χρεών 494, 3: fut. χρῆσει: aor. ἔχρησε, see ἀπόχρη.
2 sing. χρῆς or -ῆς Com. Fr. (Cratin.) 2, 87; Soph. Aj. 1373 (D), χρῆσθα Ar. Ach. 778, χρῆ Soph. Ant. 887 (D) some think better referred to χράω equivalent to χρῆζω to wish, wan!, or to χρῆζω itself, as shortened forms. With regard to the accentuation -ῆν, Goettling says "ἐχρῆν has no augment, but merely a prefix of ε for the sake of euphony, as in ἐχθές and χθές; other-prefix of  $\epsilon$  for the sake of euphony, as in  $\epsilon \chi \theta \epsilon s$  and  $\chi \theta \epsilon s$ ; otherwise it must have been  $\epsilon \chi \rho \eta \nu$ . Even then," he adds, "there would have been no reason for the paragogic »; εχρή» is an old infinitive used as an adverb." The Schol. however on Eur. Hec. 257, writes έχρη, and Hippocr. 1, 489 (Kühn); 9, 86 (Littré.) τὸ χρῆν, τὸ χρεών are used as nouns, see above—the latter even in the dat. In the three dependent moods, subj. opt. and inf. this verb follows the formation of verbs in µ, retaining however  $\eta$  in the inf. and taking  $\epsilon$  instead of  $\alpha$  in the opt.; part. (χρᾶον) χρεών, in Her. some edit. have χρέον 5, 49. 109 (Gaisf. Stein), -εών always (Bekk. Dind. &c.)

Bekker seems to have restored the Ionic form everywhere in Her.

Bekker seems to have restored the Ionic form everywhere in Her. except fut. χρήσειν 7, 38. χρήσουσι Hippocr. 2, 814 (Kühn) seems a mistake for pres. χρήζουσι 8, 310 (Lit.) This verb has occasionally the signif. of χράω to give an oracular response, Eur. Hel.

Pass. in the sense falsely reported, untruly said, p. εψευσται Dem. 52, 23: fut. mid. ψεύσεται rare if correct, Eur. An. 346 (Mss. Vulg. Kirchh.) indicated by Porson as faulty on metrical grounds, Pref. Hec. p. 40, and rejected by Herm. because "nemini non active dictum videretur" for εψεύσεται because "hoc passiva significatione dici non mirum"—and Paley approves. We think the objections of neither decisive. The only other instance of εψεύσεται we ever met is Galen 15, 137 (Kühn) where it is used in a mid. sense state incorrectly, exactly as ψεύσεται a few lines below—proving, if correct, that the later writers at least, and we are inclined to include the earlier, did not always use the fut. forms in exactly the senses assigned to them by Grammarians.

Pass. in the sense falsely reported, untruly said, p. έψευσται Dem. 52, 23: fut. mid. ψεύσεται rare if correct, Eur. An. 346 (Mss. Vulg. Kirchh.) indicated by Porson as faulty on metrical grounds, Pref. Hec. p. 40, and rejected by Herm. because "nemini non active dictum videretur" for έψεύσεται because "hoc passiva significatione dici non mirum"—and Paley approves. We think the objections of neither decisive. The only other instance of έψεύσεται we ever met is Galen 15, 137 (Kühn) where it is used in a mid. sense state incorrectly, exactly as ψεύσεται a few lines below—proving, if correct, that the later writers at least, and we are inclined to include the earlier, did not always use the fut. forms in exactly the senses assigned to them by Grammarians.
